Roosevelt Scores Nazis for Bombing Undefended Cities

Tells President of Poland That He Is "Deeply Shocked"

Washington, Sept. 18 (AP)—President Roosevelt told the president of Poland tonight that he was "deeply shocked" at reports that Germany bombed open towns and villages in Poland.

He called again upon belligerent nations to renew their orders prohibiting the bombing of civilians from the air.

In a telegram to President Moscicki, Mr. Roosevelt acknowledged receipt of a message from the Polish president stating that "for some days past German aircraft have been bombing Polish towns and villages which contain no conceivable military objectives."

Mr. Roosevelt said "I have been deeply shocked . . . by the statements contained in your telegram as well as by reports received from other sources including officials of this government in Poland at the scene of hostilities."

Advice from Biddle
Mr. Roosevelt referred to telegrams from Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, American ambassador. One of these communications said:

"Although they are ostensibly appearing to follow the principle of limiting bombardments from the air to objectives of a military character, in my opinion the German forces are taking advantage of the principle."

German and Russian Officers Fix Occupation Line for Big Armies

Polish Submarines Believed in Baltic

Moscow, Sept. 18 (AP)—The Soviet Russian Baltic fleet is "taking measures" against Polish submarines believed hiding in Baltic waters, the official news agency, Tass, announced today.

The announcement strongly indicated the steps being taken by the Soviet Baltic command were aimed specifically at Estonia, one of the small Baltic states north of Poland and adjoining Russia.

"On September 18 a Polish submarine previously interned in Tallinn, port of Estonia, escaped and disappeared in an unknown direction," said Tass.

Meet at Brest-Litovsk To Draw Up Regulations for Forces

By MELVIN K. WHITELEATHER
Berlin, Sept. 18 (AP)—German and Russian army officers were drawing up an occupation line for their armies in Poland tonight as it was reported the Nazis were resuming their battle to force the surrender of Warsaw.

Detachments of the two armies of occupation met at Brest-Litovsk, the fallen Polish city where Russian revolutionists and Germans signed their separate peace in the world war.

Germany Holding Control of Much Of Middle Europe

Aid from Russia Gives Hitler Increased Power

SMALL NATIONS FEAR ATTACK BY THE NAZIS

France Seems Temporarily Powerless to Win Much Ground

BY E. C. DANIEL
Associated Press Staff Writer

It was blue Monday for the British, French and Poles. Not only was Poland lost to the Allies, but the political stability of all Europe east of the Rhine was left in doubt, as well.

Germany and Russia, supported at least by Italy's good wishes, now dominate the middle European scene while lesser states quaver.

It is a situation bringing to mind a remark made in 1936 when Hitler announced plans for Germany's west wall: "It will make the French army a prisoner in France."

That, in effect, is France's immediate status. Powerless to go to the aid of the Poles, she also seems helpless to prevent Germany, Russia and Italy, if they wish, from redrawing territorially or politically the map of eastern, northern, and south Europe.

France Seems Powerless

Beyond the barrier of concrete, steel and neutral states that stretches from the North Sea to the Mediterranean, Germany and Russia, temporarily at least, are masters. Poland, once proud possessor of Europe's fourth or fifth strongest army is crushed between them.

From the long-range standpoint, the diplomatic-political victory for Germany appears of no less import than the actual dispersion of Poland's armies.

Vatican Writer Denounces Russia

Vatican City, Sept. 18 (AP)—Soviet Russia's invasion of Poland was denounced today by L'Osservatore Romano, Vatican newspaper, as "an uncourageous gesture" on an "untrue pretext."

"Moscow said the Polish government no longer exists," declared the paper in an editorial by Count Giuseppe Della Torre, its editor.

"That it exists is so true that in these days after leaving Warsaw its odyssey is followed step by step. But the false presupposition was necessary to proclaim fallen the Russian-Polish pact and first of all that of nonaggression—valid with Poland united and strong, not valid with her half invaded after two weeks of unequal fighting."

"It is an uncourageous gesture." It said Russia "is already in the heart of it, nobody knows yet to whom allied and to whom an enemy."

August Cardinal Hlond, Primate of Poland, arrived in Rome to report to Pope Pius VII tomorrow.

Five Policemen Held On Robbery Charges

West Palm Beach, Fla., Sept. 18 (AP)—City officials ordered an investigation into police department affairs today after County Solicitor W. E. Roebuck reported five officers had been arrested in connection with two robberies.

The accused were discharged Friday, Roebuck said, after Police Chief Robert W. Milburn and other officers caught Patrolman Harry B. Hall in the act of robbing a men's store.

Milburn reported Hall signed a statement in which he implicated Sgt. Emory P. Wall, a veteran of 13 years on the force, and Patrolman Fred Treadwell, John Culppeper and C. D. Turnbull, the latter a former lieutenant with 15 years' service.

Many Lives Feared Lost In Sinking of Aircraft Carrier by a Submarine

British Admiralty, However, Announces That List of Survivors Is Far from Complete

HEADS NAZI POLAND

Arthur Greiser, president of the former Free State of Danzig, is the new chief of civil administration to rule over Polish territory captured by the German armies. Greiser's seat of government is in a former imperial castle in the town of Posen.

Commander Rescued

The first list of survivors included Commissioner E. M. Cabel-Smith, former quarry to King George, the ship's chaplain, the commanding engineer and various officers.

Commander Abel-Smith was appointed to the place six weeks ago. Commander C. W. G. M. Woodhouse also was listed among the survivors, but there was no immediate mention of Captain W. T. Makeig-Jones, who was last reported by survivors on the bridge directing his men to abandon ship.

The ship had two commanders, Abel-Smith for the air arm, Woodhouse for the executive, while Captain Makeig-Jones was in direct command of the ship.

The survivors reported crewmen sang and cheered while they swam after the Courageous foundered.

The loss of a powerful unit of the world's greatest navy shocked a nation already angered by the loss of 24 merchant ships—among them the liner Athenia—in what the British government described as unrestricted submarine warfare.

Besides those brought to England on a destroyer, other survivors were reported aboard other vessels, including an American freighter.

Few Details Given

The admiralty's communique on the sinking of the Courageous, first British warship to go down in the two weeks of war, was barren of detail. It said only the Courageous had "been lost by enemy submarine action," that an undisclosed number of survivors had been picked up by destroyers and merchant ships (Continued on Page Three)

Invasion Called Unjustified by London Official

Statement Says War Will Continue until Objects are Achieved

FULL SUPPORT OF PUBLIC IS CLAIMED

Discussion of Situation Due in House of Commons Today

London, Sept. 18 (AP)—The British government stated tonight that it considered Soviet Russia's invasion of Poland unjustified and asserted it would "prosecute the war with all energy" until its "objects have been achieved."

It was the first official comment from Great Britain on the entry of Russian troops into Poland Sunday.

A terse communique from the ministry of information asserted, "The British government have considered the situation created by the attack upon Poland ordered by the Soviet government. This attack upon their (Britain's) own ally at a moment when she is prostrate in the face of overwhelming forces brought against her by Germany cannot in the view of his majesty's government be justified by the arguments put forward by the Soviet government."

The communique added: "The full implication of these events is not yet apparent but his majesty's government take the opportunity of stating that nothing that has occurred can make any difference to the determination of his majesty's government, with the full support of the country, to fulfill their obligations to Poland."

A full discussion of the situation created by the Soviet action in Parliament Wednesday has expected to follow Prime Minister Chamberlain's statement to the House of Commons.

Announce Change In Md. CCC Camps

Washington, Sept. 18 (AP)—Robert Fechner, Civilian Conservation Corps director, announced today two camps in Maryland would be discontinued during the period October 1, 1939—March 31, 1940, and two others established.

The total number of camps will therefore remain at 21. The new camps, to be engaged in soil conservation work, will be located at Frederick, Frederick County, and at Powellsville, Wicomico county.

To be discontinued are the soil conservation service camp at Boonsboro, Washington county, and the state forest land camp at Brandywine, Prince Georges county.

Fechner said a maximum of approximately 4,200 CCC enrollees would be engaged in conservation work in Maryland during the six months period. Distribution of camps will include six in state forests, three on national agricultural research center projects at Beltsville, seven on demonstration areas, three in national parks and two in state parks.

7 More Indicted in Louisiana Scandal

New Orleans, Sept. 18 (AP)—Louisiana grand juries today returned indictments against seven more men, one of them a former state official who allegedly used state funds to buy former Governor Richard W. Leche a pleasure yacht last December.

William G. Rankin, until recently commissioner of conservation under Leche, was indicted by the local parish grand jury on charges of embezzling $10,700 of state funds to pay for a boat given the former governor. At the time the boat was presented, it was described as a testimonial by friends for having attracted new industry to Louisiana.

Prominent Democrats Said To Have Been Hired as "Contact Men"

Washington, Sept. 18 (AP)—An exporter authorized to buy battleships and airplanes here for Russia told the Dies committee today of hiring "contact men" who have been identified with the Democratic National Committee.

Sam Carp, 51, a native of Russia whose sister is the wife of Vyacheslav Molotov, Soviet premier, testified he had a $100,000,000 authorization from Moscow in 1936 to purchase two 35,000-ton warships. He had a New York firm draw battleship plans which he sent to Russia but which were rejected. He then sought to purchase other war equipment. He organized the Carp Export and Import Company of New York to arrange exports to Russia and told of obtaining funds personally on trips to Moscow and through Amory, Russian trading firm in New York.

Books Show Payments
His books showed payments of $5,000 in June, 1937, and $20,000 in June, 1938, to Preston McGowan, whom Carp said he hired "because I wanted a good contact man and wanted the ship plans approved by the state department."

Hitler Peace Move Is Expected To Follow German Conquest of Poland

Roosevelt and Mussolini Likely To Be Asked To Take Part

There are many indications that Germany after overrunning Poland, will offer to end the war with the Western Allies. Resist Nazis as Individual Units in Warsaw, on Bug River and West of City of Lwow

By LLOYD LEHRBAS

Cernauti, Rumania, Sept. 19 (Tuesday, 1 A. M.—7 P. M., E.S.T. Monday) — Three widely separated Polish armies, badly battered and almost surrounded, today were reported continuing to fight against overwhelming German armies despite the flight of the Polish government from the nation.

Advices received at this border town showed the Polish armies were entrenched as follows:

1. In Warsaw and west of the city, still holding out after a 12-day siege.
2. Along the Bug river north of Pinsk and in the Bialystok sector.
3. Along the San river west of Lwow, the capital of the Ukraine territory now being invaded by the Russian and German armies.

100,000 Cross Border

As the Polish president, Ignacy Moscicki, Foreign Minister Josef Beck and Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz, Polish army commander, crossed the border, the Cernauti chief of police estimated that at least 100,000 refugees had fled Poland for safety in Rumania.

The Polish infantry and artillery were said to be fighting practically without aerial assistance as most of the Polish airforce has been destroyed or interned in Rumania.

The three armies were said to be resisting the Germans as individual units, without unified direction from the Polish general staff.

Observers here said the opening days of the Polish-German war were made up of long distance warfare.

Planes Bomb Troops

German planes have bombed troops and communications in cities far behind the battle lines while most of the German advances have been achieved by motorized and mechanized units speedily encircling towns and cities rather than by direct frontal attacks.

Polish staff officers and foreign military observers estimate that—because of that type of warfare—Polish combatant losses have been not more than 50,000 to 100,000 killed.

Before the war the Poles figured they could lose a million men before Warsaw could be taken.

German losses were estimated by the same observers at between 35,000 and 50,000 killed.

As the Polish leaders crossed the border, they were reported on their way to Bucharest from where, it (Continued on Page Three)

Roosevelt Calls Landon and Knox Into Conference

Republican Leaders Will Discuss War Crisis with President

Washington, Sept. 18 (AP)—In an unusual step which recalled his recent plea for "national unity" on problems arising from the European war, President Roosevelt today broadened the coming White House conference on neutrality legislation to include the titular heads of the Republican party, Alf M. Landon and Col. Frank Knox.

He obtained their readily given consent to attend the meeting, which is to be held Wednesday, the day before Congress convenes in special session to consider the administration plan for revamping the neutrality law, which now embargoes arms shipments to belligerents.

While preparations for the session went on, Senator Borah (R-Idaho), aggressive foe of the administration plan of revision, told reporters that a "rift" had developed in the ranks of administration supporters on the question as a result of the recent signs of friendship between Germany, Russia and Japan.

Plan Loses Popularity

The administration's cash and carry plan, under which American markets would be opened to all belligerents who pay cash and furnish ships for the transportation of their purchases, was "not so popular" among Roosevelt supporters as it was two weeks ago, he said. This was due, he added, to the possibility that war goods and other supplies might be shipped from this country to Germany by way of Russia and Japan.

As for his own views, Borah said that if the repeal of the embargo could be accompanied by an absolute return to international law, and the abandonment of the cash and carry system he would interpose little opposition.

Landon Accepts

The inclusion of Landon and Knox, the Republican presidential and vice presidential candidates of 1936, in the White House congressional conference was made known by a presidential secretary while, at Topick, Landon asserted his readiness to participate.

He said he was "glad" to help "in this serious situation" and had no hesitancy in accepting. He thought, however, that it would be "improper" to comment at this time on the issues involved.

Knox's newspaper, the Chicago Daily News, has been strongly advocating the repeal of the arms embargo, and he himself has urged the establishment of a "national government" through the inclusion in the cabinet of the "three great factions in Congress."

Previously, invitations to Wednesday's White House gathering had gone to both the Republican and Democratic leaders in Congress, together with the chairmen of the committees which handle legislation dealing with foreign affairs. The name of Rep. Mages (R-Mich.), ranking Republican member of the House Rules Committee, also was added to the list today.

Early Makes Announcement

The announcement of the list's increase came from Stephen T. Early, the president's press secretary, who said Mr. Roosevelt called them by telephone last night.

In speaking of Landon and Knox, Early referred to them as national rather than political leaders.

The day also brought several other developments related to the coming neutrality fight or to the war abroad.

Senators Caraway (D-Ark.) and Schwartz (D-Wyo.) returned to the city announcing they would support the president's position on neutrality.

Senator Gurney (R-SD) urged that President Roosevelt reorganize his cabinet to include "conservative Democrats and Republicans."

At the state department, an official indicated the United States would not apply the arms embargo to Russia, whose troops have marched into Poland, unless Great Britain and France declare war upon that country.

The president ordered the personnel of the coast guard increased by 2,000 men "as rapidly as possible" through voluntary enlistments.

Maryland University Enrollment Rises

College Park, Md., Sept. 18 (AP)—An 18 per cent increase in enrollment was reported today by the University of Maryland as 2,867 students jammed classrooms on the opening day of school.

Miss Alma Preinkert, registrar, said the enrollment was an increase of 445 over last year in the six colleges and graduate schools of the university here. She estimated a registration of 3,500 before the end of the first semester.

Biggest increase was in the entering freshman class, where the 1,650 students represented a 21 per cent jump over the 870 of last fall.

The arts and science school had top registration with 378 freshmen. There were 251 freshmen registrations in the school of engineering, 141 in the school of agriculture, 115 in the school of commerce, 117 in home economics courses, and only 79 decided to become educators.

The arts and science school led all others also in total number of students with 954 registered. Engineering had 319, agriculture 352, commerce 349, education 293, home economics 262, and the graduate school 348.

King George, the war office announced, accepted temporarily his brother's resignation as field marshal in order that he might serve actively in the lower rank of Major general. The appointment was effective as of September 3, the day Britain declared war.

Windsor returned from France September 12 after almost three years of self-imposed exile, accompanied by his Maryland-born wife for whom he relinquished his throne.

American Clipper Not Forced Down

London, Sept. 19 (Tuesday) (AP)—The British news agency, Reuters, said today the American Clipper, flying boat of pan-American Airways, was winging its way safely across the Atlantic to New York after an interruption in wireless communications temporarily had caused fears for its safety.

The flying boat left Horta, the Azores, at 7:10 p. m. (2:10 p. m. E. S. T.) Monday.

Reuters said that a Portuguese gunboat was dispatched to the assistance of the Clipper when the break in communications led to a belief the flying boat had come down in the Atlantic, 100 miles west of the Azores. The gunboat was reported returning to its base after it was learned that all was well aboard the Clipper.

Germany Holding Control Of Much Of Middle Europe

tree perhaps 55 of Germany's divisions in Poland, not only to go to the western front but to overawe eastern Europe as well.

Germany appears to be in position to demand any of the vital raw materials she needs from the little neutral states on her borders. Likewise, she can discourage them from selling supplies to the allies, much less lending any military aid to France and England.

Small Countries In Peril

Poland's fate presents a frightening prospect to countries which are even smaller and weaker, countries with minority populations whom Germany and Russia might find to be in need of protection.

If Germany, with the sanction of help of Russia and Italy, should continue rewriting the Versailles treaty, as has been done in Poland, Roumania alone might lose 900,000 inhabitants in Bessarabia to Russia and 1,300,000 in Transylvania to Hungary.

Already, Turkey, once near an alliance with England, is reported courting Russia with a friendship treaty in view.

Nazis Time To Exult

Thus, while the British and French may pound at her west wall, Germany can exult—momentarily at least—in the hope of realizing at last her ambition to exclude her 1914 enemies from the affairs of continental Europe.

Power politics, rather than actual warfare highlight the scene for the time being. But despite the relative quiet on the Western front the final outcome of the struggle may be determined there.

Portents of a big battle to come are contained in reports that German troops and aircraft, freed from further duty in Poland, are being massed on the western front. Meanwhile, cautious France, matching Germany move for move, is reinforcing her army.

France and England have made plain they want no peace based on acceptance of the destruction and dismemberment of Poland. In the words of Anthony Eden they are fighting to rid Europe of Hitlerism.

Warsaw Radio Cut Off in Middle of An Announcement

Description of War by Col. Lipinski Ends Suddenly

Budapest, Sept. 18 (AP)—The Warsaw radio became silent suddenly at 10:10 p. m. (4:10 p. m. E. S. T.) tonight as Col. Wladyslaw Lipinski was telling of fighting against German besiegers in the Polish capital.

He had said fighting in the Praga district of East Warsaw was violent last night with heavy shelling. The west sector was quiet.

Col. Lipinski claimed the Poles had taken many prisoners.

Yesterday, he asserted, German artillery had shelled the center of the city.

"And yet," continued the radio announcement, "we have comparative order here."

"We have lived through yesterday and today despite bombing, machine gunning and shelling."

"Day before yesterday we thought the great onslaught had broken Warsaw's spirit, but . . ."

Here the radio speech was broken off.

asked if McGowan was not an assistant to Charles Michelson of the Democratic National Committee and Carp replied that he did not know.

Michelson, at his office, said McGowan had been employed by the committee off and on for a number of years but was not working for the committee at the time of these payments. He is employed by him now.

The $5,000 payment was a check, said Carp, "and the $20,000 was in cash, in $1,000 bills."

"The $25,000 was all he got," said Carp, "and I was dissatisfied with his work and I fired him."

Concealed Identity

"I didn't at first know of his connection with the national committee," he concealed his identity but told me he had a lot of good connections, and that he was a former minister."

Rhea Whitley, committee counsel, then introduced an account showing a "payment of $5,000 to Scott Ferris of Washington, D. C., on June 24, 1938."

"Yes," said Carp, "after I fired McGowan I hired Ferris as a lawyer."

"Did you know Scott Ferris was a Democratic National Committee man from Oklahoma?" asked Mason.

"No," replied Carp.

"How much time did McGowan give you for the $25,000?" asked Representative Voorhis (D-Calif.).

"About ten months," said Carp.

Whitley then produced an item showing a "payment of $25,000 to Ferris on the same day the $5,000 was paid to him."

Expected $2,000,000

Carp told the committee he would have made a personal profit of $2,000,000 if the deals had gone through.

"I told McGowan he stood to make $100,000 also," said Carp, adding that he had "no recollection of what I told Ferris."

Carp said Ferris "still represents us." He then said he had paid Ferris $1,000 on March 22 and $1,000 on May 31, making a total of $2,000.

Maryland Farmers Plant Many Trees

Washington, Sept. 18 (AP)—Maryland farmers planted more than 248,050 trees last year under the federal-state cooperative plan provided by the Clarke-McNary law, the forest service reported today.

Of these plantings, 4,961 were for windbreaks and shelterbelts and 243,089 were for wood production.

Plantings throughout the United States under the program totaled 55,359 trees. The proportion used for windbreaks and shelterbelts varied from 1 per cent in such states as Florida, New Hampshire, Connecticut and New York to 50 per cent in Oregon and 100 per cent in Wyoming, Montana, Colorado and the Dakotas.

The Clarke-McNary plantings were in addition to those made in the plains states under the prairie states forestry project.

The Clarke-McNary law provides for the allotment of federal funds to states matching such allotments for carrying on fire-protection work in forests and furnishing forest tree seedlings to farmers. State forestry agencies distribute the trees at cost or less to encourage farm forestry.

Federal expenditures last year in this program were $75,286.33. States spent $303,910.33.

Trees used in Clarke-McNary plantings included practically all species of commercial value.

Farmers report a saving in fuel in houses sheltered by trees and a saving in feed when windbreaks are used around feed lots, the forest service said.

B. & O. Stockholders Seek Readjustment

Baltimore, Sept. 18 (AP)—George M. Shriver, senior vice president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, testified in federal court today that 87.9 per cent of security owners had assented to readjustment of the debt structure under the Chandler act.

In the first day's hearing on the railroad's application to revise its financial structure by reducing interest on certain indentures, he said interest holding $5,343,000 of the securities had dissented from the plan.

Unless permission is granted by the court, Shriver said, the road may be forced into receivership or be compelled to reorganize under Section 77 of the National Bankruptcy act.

Business has improved considerably for the railroad, he added, since the beginning of the year.

The hearing will continue tomorrow. Harry W. Anderson of Richmond, Va., chief counsel for the B. & O. said he may call Daniel Willard, president, to the stand.

Lull on Western Front Proves Aid To British Army

Gives Tommies Opportunity To Move into the Maginot Line

By H. TAYLOR HENRY

Paris, Sept. 18 (AP)—The Western front apparently enjoyed a lull in the war today — a lull that began with the Russian drive into Poland.

The general staff's night communiqué, which announced the first specific victory for the French fleet in sinking a German submarine, said that French activity during the day on land fronts was confined to artillery bombardment particularly in the sector south of Saarbrücken.

This obviously meant heavy French batteries in the Warndt Forest which form the backbone of French artillery support for the entire Saarbrücken sector on the Western front.

An earlier communiqué said "there is nothing to report," although the general staff has consistently announced almost daily successes during the first two weeks of operations on the 100-mile Northern flank.

(A German communiqué also described the Western front as quiet, except that a French plane was shot down.)

Nazi Army Reinforced

Military dispatches, however, said heavy Nazi reinforcements were reaching the Western front, having been released from Poland by the Russian action.

(The German communiqué gave the German belief that the war in the east was virtually ended and that the German air force may soon participate in the fighting on the Western front. Members of the air force began arriving in Berlin from the East.)

The French and British were said to have taken advantage of the lull by moving British reinforcements into the area of the Maginot line. The Tommies were reported to have entered the Maginot fortifications from tunnels far behind the line and out of range of German artillery.

German Strength Unknown

There was no indication of the number of German divisions purportedly being brought to the West from Poland. The best available estimates in Paris have placed the German strength in Poland at more than 70 divisions, or in the neighborhood of a million men.

Military experts have expressed the belief that a country like Poland, after being conquered, could be policed by 15 divisions and that Russian cooperation undoubtedly would decrease the number of troops needed there.

Heaviest German reinforcements were said to be moving into positions around Saarbrücken, the rich industrial city whose defenses form the key to the central sector of the Northern flank.

O'Connor Reduces Funds Available To Md. Officials

Annapolis, Sept. 18 (AP)—September, fiscal month of Maryland's fiscal year, has been changed from a "fat" month to 30 lean days financially for state officials by Ukase of Gov. Herbert R. O'Connor, and the state's surplus will get bigger because of it.

Gov. O'Connor announced that all state department heads were advised that no budget amendments for September would be approved by the executive office unless vital to state business.

The edict, based on several years' study of departmental practices, was designed to curb the rush to spend unexpended balances in the final month of the fiscal year.

O'Connor explained that it has been the frequent practice of department heads to petition for transfer of monies from one fund to another in September. This custom permitted spending all sums remaining in the departmental budget before the October 1 spending "deadline." (All unexpended funds revert to the state surplus when the new fiscal year starts.)

"I feel that savings effected through the first eleven months of the fiscal year should revert to the surplus," Gov. O'Connor said. "The practice of finding outlets for money saved, simply because it is available and will be lost through reversion to the surplus does not strike me as sound business practice, and no such petitions for budget changes will be approved this month unless absolutely necessary."

The executive would not estimate the probable total state surplus October 1, but said he expected it to be "satisfactory."

Garner Silent on His Neutrality Views

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 18 (AP)—Keeping his views on neutrality legislation his native state tonight for the strict to himself, Vice President John N. Garner headed out of his native state for the special Congressional session opening Thursday.

While his train paused 20 minutes here, he declined to discuss the presidential campaign which Texans are waging in his behalf. The Dallas News said, however, he told friends riding with them that he did not intend to turn a hand to obtain the nomination.

REVIEWING THE CONQUERERS

Still wearing the uniform he is pledged to wear until victory or death, Adolf Hitler, first soldier of the German Reich, reviews some of the troops participating in the drive which conquered half of Poland with lightning speed. Photo flashed from Berlin to New York by radio.

Italy Steadfast As To Neutrality

Rome, Sept. 18 (AP)—A further indication that Italy is holding steadfastly to her non-belligerent status was seen today in the government announcement that peasants in the army would be permitted to return home for wine-making and fall planting.

While authorities declared that "agricultural leave" for reservists would not weaken the Army's efficiency, it was considered obvious by observers that Premier Mussolini would not let the men go if war for Italy was in his plans for the next few weeks.

The Italian government watched each new turn in the war with redoubled vigilance since the conflict showed signs of extending to the Danubian Basin.

Italian circles watched developments in absolute silence. This was due to the delicate situation for Italy, which is an outright ally of Germany and a nation with claims for settlement in a different position than the smaller neutral powers of Europe.

For that reason they refrained from any comment on Soviet Russia's invasion of Poland.

Italians said they had expected the partition of Poland by Germany and Russia, however, being informed of the Soviet army's intention in advance through their diplomatic observers.

German and Russian Officers Fix Occupation Line for Big Armies

with officers bearing the Communist hammer and sickle.

The two commands were concerned with fixing a line in Poland beyond which the German and Russian armies would not go.

Reports were heard here that the best the Poles could hope for was a possible protectorate similar to Bohemia and Moravia in what was Czechoslovakia, with Warsaw as the capital.

Again Attack Warsaw

About 120 miles to the west of Brest-Litovsk the attack on Warsaw began again. DNB (official German news agency) reported. It was not stated, however, whether the city was being bombed or shelled.

The reported action at Warsaw followed the asserted failure of the Poles to send a negotiator to discuss the capital's surrender, the Germans had been waiting since 10 p. m. (4 p. m. E. S. T.) Sunday for the emissary and during that time hostilities had ceased at Warsaw.

In Berlin, German officials watched closely proposals for changing the United States neutrality law.

Officials declared that any change in the U. S. act which would make it possible for Great Britain and France to obtain arms "could only mean the first step toward the United States' entrance into the war."

Seven Points Considered

While the Russian and German armies pushed their occupation of Poland, informed quarters said several general points already had been agreed upon. Among these were:

1. No Polish state exists.

2. From this fact, the two governments draw the natural consequences.

3. The two governments are agreed the situation of minorities under the former Polish government demands revision along the lines of ethical (racial) development of each minority.

(Officials would not say whether this meant complete or modified self-government for the minorities.)

4. The task of each government is to bring about a new order and establish quiet.

5. Germany and Russia, alone are interested in the reconstruction of this area, for in every respect the former Polish state

Fewer Cases in Court of Appeals

Annapolis, Md., Sept. 18 (AP)—Maybe it was too hot to get mad at anybody, but the smallest October Court of Appeals preliminary docket in years today showed Maryland citizens hit a low ebb in summer feuding in the law courts.

Only 53 cases were docketed for hearing at the annual fall term, which opens October 2. Six cases scheduled are appeals by Dr. Carr E. Bowman from convictions on statutory offenses, and are bracketed in one record, cutting the number of actual hearings to 48.

Ordinarily, approximately 90 cases appear on the preliminary docket for an Appellate Court term.

Court attaches today were notifying 87 candidates who passed the June bar examinations that they are eligible for admission to practice before the appeals court. Admission of the fledgling attorneys is an early item on the court calendar.

was the natural sphere of influence of Germany and Russia.

6. The contention of France and England that they must come to the aid of Poland has proven an impossible realization and their treaties with Poland have become pointless.

7. France and England once again are faced with the question of why they want to wage war against Germany.

Small Strip For Poles

It was said officially there was a possibility the Poles might be allowed to hold a small strip of territory as a buffer between Germany and Russia but this "depends a great deal on the attitude the Poles assume."

German sources disclosed plans already were being made to absorb the Poles in west Poland into the Reich industry which badly needs laborers.

The reported failure of an emissary to negotiate with the Germans for civilians to leave Warsaw was explained by statements that chaos reigns within the capital.

The Polish campaign was said to be considered by the high command as won so that "strong units" of the air force were sent to the west last night to participate in what is being termed here as the "leaflets war on the Western front."

It was explained that this reference was to propaganda leaflets which the British have dropped by the millions on Reich territory.

Only Minor Activities

Military activities in Poland were relatively minor while Germans awaited the Russians coming across the marshes and mountains of eastern Poland.

No news was given about the battle north of Lodz where Germans were said earlier to be squeezing the only remaining substantial Polish forces. But military sources said that in the Carpathian foothills the right wing of the so-called southern army pushed further into the oil fields, taking Drohobycz on the Tyamienka river, the most important oil center of the region.

The German army, it was indicated would halt along its present line of occupation, running northward from Lwow to Brest-Litovsk to Bialystok, and comprising roughly the western two-thirds of Poland.

All territory east of that line—unless Lithuania is permitted to retake its capital, Wilno (Vilna)—will be Russian, it was believed.

Officials said the "squatter's right" rule might obtain in Wilno, thereby indicating the Lithuanians were to be ignored.

2,000 Increase for Coast Guard Service

Washington, Sept. 18 (AP)—President Roosevelt issued an executive order today providing for an increase of 2,000 men in the coast guard.

The order was in line with steps taken recently, under a proclamation of a limited national emergency, to boost the strength of the nation's armed forces.

Circulation Men Hear Speech on Papers of 1980

James Wright Brown, Jr., Delivers Address at Newark, N. J.

Newark, N. J., Sept. 18 (AP)—James Wright Brown, Jr., vice president of Editor and Publisher, today told 75 members of the Inter-State Circulation Managers' Association that newspaper readers of the future will be "considerably older" than at present.

Gathered at the Hotel Douglas for their 22nd fall convention, the circulation men were from New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, District of Columbia, Maryland and West Virginia.

Making forecasts of the "newspaper of 1980," the newspaper trade magazine executive said the "population then probably would be no larger but would have more leisure time through the development of machinery."

Brown predicted "spot news would have become mostly the province of radio and television."

Arthur J. Sinnett, editor of the Newark News, spoke of the "benefits and closer co-operation between the editor and the circulation manager" and then added:

"I have always felt, however, and always will feel that the general excellence of a newspaper in all departments of news coverage is the most important factor in making new readers and retaining old ones."

started early Sunday morning, was proceeding along the entire 500-mile eastern Polish frontier from Latvia to Rumania.

The point Soviet-German communiqué declared:

"In order to forestall unfounded rumors of every description with regard to the tasks of Soviet and German troops in Poland, the governments of the U. S. S. R. and Germany declare that the actions of these troops pursue no aim counter to the interests of Germany or the Soviet union or contradicting the spirit and the letter of the non-aggression pact concluded by Germany and the U. S. S. R.

"On the contrary, the task of these troops is to reestablish in Poland the peace and order disrupted by the collapse of the Polish state and to assist the population of Poland in reconstructing conditions of their state existence."

(Substantially the same announcement was made in Berlin by the official German news agency.)

First reports said Red troops had taken Dubno and Tarnopol in the Polish Ukraine, Baranowicz, a rail center 50 miles inside the Polish frontier, and Gielokie, north-east of Wilno.

Large Army in Poland
Foreign military experts estimated the Soviet union has at least 2,000,000 soldiers on her western front and that between 500,000 and 1,000,000 probably were participating in Poland.

Poland's ambassador, Wacław Grzybowski, received instructions from his government to leave Moscow in protest.

British and French diplomatic missions, whose governments have pledged to aid Poland against any threat to her independence, still awaited instructions over the new development of the European war.

When he informed 24 other nations of the Soviet march, Premier-Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov told Britain and France that Russia intended to remain neutral. He declared the Soviet intention was to protect the 11,000,000 Ukrainians and White Russians in Poland.

German circles reported Russian and German planes occasionally were meeting in Poland and exchanging cheery greetings.

The crew of a German plane recently forced down in Russia has been interned in what was announced as most comfortable circumstances at a Kiev hotel.

Diplomatic quarters heard continued reports that an armistice might be proposed as soon as Poland's fate has been settled by Germany and Russia.

Frost in West Va.

Kingwood, W. Va., Sept. 18 (AP)—The first frost of the season in Preston county was not a killing one. County Agent Fred J. Reed reported tonight.

The frost, general in the county last night, found an apple tree in bloom on a farm along the Cheat river near the camp of U. S. District Attorney Joe V. Gibson.

Desperate Armies Hold Overwhelming Force of German Troops At Bay

was said, they planned to go to Paris.

The Russian army, striking swiftly since its entry into Poland yesterday was roiling westward through the Ukraine. The motorized forces were reported advancing through the province of Tarnopol, through Zaleszczyki (which was a temporary seat of the Polish government) and Sniatyn.

Military observers believed the Russians had reached Kolomija sometime today and were approaching Kutu.

(These towns are all in the extreme southeast corner of Poland.)

Germans Driving Ahead

Soviet tanks and motorized forces apparently planned to occupy the territory along the entire length of the Polish-Rumanian frontier. Eastward driving German troops were reported 50 kilometers (about 31 miles) from Kutu. Observers considered it likely the German and Russian forces would meet at the Polish-Hungarian frontier.

Maj. W. H. Colbern, United States military attaché in Poland, reported that a Russian tank commander told him Russians were "against the Germans."

Maj. Colbern had crossed the Dniester river in Poland yesterday and was on the road to Horodenska, about 40 miles northwest of here when he said he saw a column of 11-ton tanks going in the same direction as some Polish troops. Maj. Colbern said Polish troops fraternized with the Russians and gave them cigarettes.

Nazi Planes Bomb Town

Leland Harrison, an American embassy secretary was leaving Zaleszczyki at 11 a. m. (5 a. m. EST) yesterday, he said when German warplanes bombed the town as Russian tanks appeared.

United States, French, British and other foreign envoys to Poland have crossed the border as well as the French and military missions and are now in Cernauti, Bucharest or on their way to the Rumanian capital.

The Rumanian-Polish border is the scene of almost unbelievable confusion with a steady stream of fleeing refugees and Polish troops.

Polish troops, especially air force men, and equipment, including 270 Polish army planes, crossed the frontier. The Poles were being interned by Rumanian military authorities.

The Cernauti chief of police estimated at least 100,000 Polish refugees crossed the border in automobiles, on bicycles, horses and on foot.

Taxis Carry Refugees
Even taxis came from Warsaw loaded with refugees and their baggage. A fire engine and hook and ladder truck from Krakow entered. Cars with Polish licenses from cities throughout Poland were seen.

The roads were choked to the border from Cernauti.

The backwash of war has made a grim pageant in little Cernauti, suddenly transformed into a pseudo-international capital.

Seriously wounded Polish airmen filled the military hospital. Convening advantage of every opportunity, without regard to the danger to the civilian population which may be involved.

"It is also evident that the German bombers are releasing the bombs they carry even when they are in doubt as to the identity of their objectives."

President Roosevelt said in his telegram, "It had been my hope following the receipt from the several belligerent powers of the replies to my appeal of September 1, in which they stated their intentions to limit the operations of their air forces to military objectives, that the world would be spared the horror of witnessing during this war the bombing of open towns and villages and the slaughtering of thousands of innocent and defenseless men, women, and children."

Appeal to Governments

The president added, "In view of the hundreds of thousands of lives which may be at stake, it is my earnest hope that the governments of the belligerent countries will renew their orders prohibiting the practice of bombing the civilians in unfortified centers of population from the air, and that they will take measures to assure themselves that their respective air forces are showing that regard for the lives of non-combatants which their replies to my appeal of September 1 have led the world to expect."

On September 1 President Roosevelt appealed to Germany, Poland, Great Britain, France and Italy to refrain from bombing civilian populations and received acceptance from the four belligerents.

One French Aviator Wings 3 Nazi Planes

Paris, Sept. 18 (AP)—A single French pilot shot down three German planes in aerial combat over the western front today, French military authorities said.

Advices from the front lines given out in Paris said French planes had been generally active along the front in meeting the German air force on an even footing.

The French ace, as yet unnamed in dispatches, was said to have shot down three planes in rapid succession.

tration camps for fleeing Polish troops sprang up overnight like boom mining towns. Most Poles said they willingly faced internment, glad to have escaped the chaotic struggle in their homeland.

Diplomatic representatives of more than a score of nations rubbed shoulders in the two small hotels. Many slept on cots in the corridors.

A constant stream of Rumanian troops marched toward the troubled frontier. Observers commented that Rumania was obviously in a critical position and the lightning pace of the war made many fear the worst.

and that the submarine was "heavily attacked by destroyers and is believed to have been sunk."

"There were two distinct bangs at intervals of about a second," related one of the survivors.

"After that there were a few minor explosions and most of the crew jumped into the water. The order to abandon ship came within five minutes and the Courageous foundered 30 minutes after the first explosion. The ship heeled so badly some lifeboats could not be used."

One officer reported Captain W. T. McKelvey-Jones last was seen on the bridge.

How a German U-boat could have slipped past the screen of destroyers which ordinarily protects the floating airbases was not explained officially.

Deep Dive Probable

Neutral observers conjectured a submarine could have slipped upon the Courageous and her destroyers by a dangerously deep dive and then attacked in full knowledge that her chances for escape were slim.

The ministry of information said the full complement of the Courageous plus the personnel of the fleet arm—normally 48 planes—was about 1,200 officers and men. When sunk she had a reduced complement of aircraft and therefore presumably a somewhat smaller crew.

Where the Courageous went down was not disclosed. The admiralty said she had been "performing very good service in protecting ships of the mercantile marine against U-boat attacks."

Six Carriers Left

a severe blow, left Great Britain with six other, newer aircraft carriers. Five more are under construction.

A communiqué tonight reviewing the England's air patrol of the sea said "many submarines" have been found and attacked, some sunk and others severely damaged "with little opposition from the German airforce."

The communiqué also gave an eyewitness account by a British flier telling how he sighted a submarine two miles away, approached under cover of a cloud and sank the craft with bombs.

The scene of the battle was not disclosed.

He said he opened fire at a man on the conning tower. His first bombs hit the water 15 to 20 yards ahead of the submarine as it rapidly submerged, and the explosions blew her back to the surface, he said.

James fighting ships, authoritative volume on fleets, describes the Courageous as a converted cruiser first built in 1916—the oldest but one of the largest of the British aircraft carriers.

It was recalled that the first

British warship sunk by a German submarine in the last war was H. M. S. Aboukir.

She was destroyed in September, 1914. Two other warships, the Hogue and Cressy went to pick up survivors and they also were sunk.

The total loss of life in these incidents was about 60 officers and 1,400 men.

CHAPTER FORTY-SIX

SHOT ROGERS never quite knew what governed him that night during the Mexicans' horse stampede. He had seen his opportunity to escape during the confusion, and as quickly as possible he set out to grasp it. But he came near to Luis Escobar, who was futilely, if raucously, bawling commands and running back and forth in a frenzy not unlike that of the animals.

Shot stopped in his tracks, half loathed as if for a fight. He had a butcher knife in his hand, but he forgot that. He saw Escobar's sword flapping at the man's left side and remembered his plan to snatch it if he had the chance. But he ignored that now and suddenly ran at the man.

With no weapon whatsoever save that which nature had provided, he struck Luis Escobar full on the head. He heard a faint "unh-h-h!" through the stampede noises. Escobar fell—first to his knees, then backward, prone.

Still not reasoning why, Shot stooped the man's inert form, stooped under him and stood up with him in his arms. He would carry a bale of hay, then he started walking off, into the night.

He aimed vaguely with his burden toward a dark spot in the landscape which he knew would be a canyon. He hoped it wouldn't be dead end, as so many canyons turn out to be. He thought this was the way he had spotted in daylight as a probable open pass, maybe even a water course in rainy season. His guess was lucky. It did lead on away from camp with fairly smooth walking. Shot was straining mightily—Escobar was a heavy man.

Behind him was still a confusion of shouting and running and yelling. The camp had been poorly lit by a few fires and a dozen so weak lanterns. These latter had been knocked from their posts, and the explosion and oil was burning a puny flame on the ground around it even now, and the fires had been scattered by the madly rushing horses and men. Shot knew that dawn must come before any semblance of order was restored there. He was even sure that any entries up this way would have been hindered, hence he could walk without the necessity of extreme caution.

He leaned Escobar's form against a shoulder once to rest, then lugged him on. The noises behind him began to recede. Minutes passed, and Shot knew he had come three or four hundred yards when Escobar began to groan and show signs of returning consciousness. He stopped his weight to the ground.

"Lie still, general," Shot muttered grimly, "or I may have to let off your rank."

By sight and feeling he learned that he could quickly unlase Escobar's high boots, thereby getting some stout rawhide strings. With the string he tied first the man's feet together, crossing the ankles and making the knot as tight as he could.

Next he crossed Escobar's wrists behind him and tied them together, then picked up his burden and trudged on. He had to rest frequently now, for the canyon began to climb and the rocks and shrubbery were a hindrance. He would carry the man 50 yards—60 yards—maybe a hundred or more—and then him down to blow. Escobar began to mutter and talk.

"Como," he rumbled once, "Dónde? Quien es hombre?"

"Shut up!" Shot commanded, then he lapsed into Spanish, too. "Keep your mouth shut, Escobar, or I'll crack you another one on the chin. And don't try any fancy wriggling." Escobar kept his mouth shut. Evidently he came slowly to his senses, for his sundry groanings indicated as much, but he did not heed Shot's command to ride quietly. He began twisting and wriggling and writhing. Shot had to carry him in what must have been extremely uncomfortable positions—so that their progress was still further slowed down. Nevertheless, the camp noise had about ceased by now. Shot estimated he was half a mile, maybe three-quarters, from the camp. The horses had naturally scattered in a general downhill direction, which would take them the other way from him and his prisoner, and the dead or wounded in camp would occupy any soldiers who came back in. In short, the stampede was as effective as a surprise battle would have been. Shot wondered for a moment whatever could have caused the stampede, and he hoped Lorena saw the rout of the camp and so started on back homeward.

That latter thought caused him to make a decision in another half hour or so. He had lugged Escobar more than a mile, maybe two, he couldn't be sure; it felt like 10 miles, so weary was he. So he got the butcher knife from his bosom, cut strips of Escobar's clothing, securely tied him to a small tree, gagged him with cloth stuffed into his mouth, and then set out alone.

Escobar protested volubly, first furiously, then pleading and even praying. He thought Shot meant to slay him with the knife. Shot only slapped him to make him open his mouth so the gag would go in.

"If you behave yourself for a day or two, I might come back after you," Shot promised. "If I forget where I hid you, though, don't be surprised. I'd ought to, at that."

Free of his burden, Shot could walk with infinite ease now. It was like swinging four baseball bats and then batting with one, or lassoing grown steers all day, then roping a baby calf. He was able to orient himself by landmarks he had already observed—high peaks, skyline saddles that dipped in peculiar manner. The moon and stars told him where north was, too, even though the moon was only a sliver of yellow tonight. He walked fast, wondering if he dared call out trying to locate Lorena.

He decided not to risk calling. "Only sensible thing for her to

Fungus Disease Kills London Plane Trees

College Park, Md., Sept. 18 (AP)—A fungus disease has destroyed 700 London plane trees in Baltimore and hundreds of others in the counties. C. E. Temple, state plant pathologist reported today.

Temple said several thousand others had been destroyed in and near Philadelphia by the same disease. He described it as a disease of the bark and wood of the tree. The fungus causes cankers which enlarge from year to year until they may be a foot or more across in large trees. Beneath the cankers, the wood is invaded upward and downward by the parasite and the wood turns black.

He said pathologists found other symptoms of the disease to be a reduction in the size of leaves and their number. In its last stages the tree develops numerous short sprouts in lateral rows extending several inches around the trunk. Then the tree dies.

The London plane is extensively used for shade trees on city streets. Temple said. Very little is known about the disease, he added, but it is being investigated by the department of agriculture.

The disease is known to spread rapidly and Temple urged that every suspected case be reported to him or to Hollis J. Howe, Baltimore city forester.

Two Families Claim Record for Longevity

Girdletree, Md., Sept. 18 (AP)—This central Worcester county town of 300 today advanced claims for a record of longevity for two families. Both families, unrelated, were each found to have four generations of descendants. All live here.

At the head of one family are Mr. and Mrs. John Beider, married nearly 65 years. They are the great-great-grandparents of little Sandra Jones, 15-month old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garland B. Jones.

In between are Mr. and Mrs. Garland D. Jones, grandparents of Sandra and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Berdan, great-grandparents of the child.

Mrs. Harriett Tarr, 95, is head of the second family. Her husband, William T. Tarr Sr., died recently. Mrs. Tarr is the great-great-grandmother of Betty Anne Esterline, four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Esterline.

In between are Betty Anne's grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ebe Lewis and her great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William T. Tarr Jr.

Rejuvenate Your Tresses

FRANCES ROBINSON... keeps her hair beautiful with care.

By HELEN FOLLETT

HOW DID your hair come through the summer season? Did you bask in the sunlight, bleach your locks in horrid streaks? If so, you had better give yourself some reconditioning treatments or trot-trot to the beauty shop and let them give your brain mop a good overhauling. It won't do to let locks go their own way. Like the complexion, they respond to conditioning care.

Scalp and silky shafts thrive on oil. So the night before the shampoo apply olive or mineral oil and have it hot. Spread out fingers and thumbs and give your scalp a mauling, lifting it up, pinching the flesh, rolling it. The purpose is to rouse the circulatory streams upon which the hair shafts live. Oil treatments are beneficial to dry hair and they will not make oily hair oilier.

Have a rousing shampoo next morning, using melted soap, frictioning it in at least three times; have as many rinsings. Use a strong current of water. Don't fancy you can slosh up water from the wash bowl and get the lather out of your glorious crest; it can't be done that way. While using the spray keep lifting up the hair so the water is thoroughly distributed. Lovely Chinese ladies who lived 4,000 years ago did that same little thing, so it is reported by those who claim to know. Mona Lisa hasn't any, not even a faint shadow. If you ask up, or even if you don't, we believe that sly girl would be even prettier if she sported a smart set of eyebrows.

They must be arched and treated for a neat, clear-cut border line, but they are no longer murdered and put out of business. If you have tweezed yours to a state of nothingness, friction with vaseline every night. That treatment will restore them to a normal state.

Mrs. Beatrice Williams and daughter, Phyllis, and Dennis Lowe all of Norfolk, Va., spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McKenzie, 48 North Mechanic street.

Wrap Melons

The flavor of melons often enters other foods stored with them in the refrigerator. To prevent that, wrap the melons securely in oil silk refrigerator bags or other containers and put them on the top shelf.

It is always the cordial and correct thing for a host or hostess to accompany guests to the door to bid them goodbye.

Exercises Can Help Shape You To the "Hourglass Silhouette"

Correct position at start of gravity bust-developing exercise: shoulders on floor, hips higher than shoulders, feet still higher.

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Feature Service Writer

The much-debated "hourglass silhouette" is this: Bust full, and lifted, waist slender, and decidedly pinched; hips moulded, but definitely rounded out, instead of being flattened down as they have been for so long. It's the pronounced hips that have caused most comment.

We'll discuss hip-molding and waist-slimming in succeeding articles.

ticles. Beginning at the beginning, here are some hints on developing the bust.

The woman who has a small bust has a better chance of achieving the correct contour than one who is heavy. Most beauty experts agree it's almost impossible to reshape busts that are too heavy. Cutting down on salt helps in some cases. But exercising is the best procedure.

Here are two good ones:

1. Lie on the floor. Prop two pillows under your hips to raise them above shoulder level. (That lets gravity work with you.) Press shoulders to the floor. Throw your arms out, then lift your chest with a jerk, tensing your chest muscles. Hold that position as long as possible. Then relax. Do this exercise a few minutes each day.

2. Stand. Raise your arms to shoulder height, palms up. Pulling with your elbows and working your arms from the shoulder sockets, swing your hands in circles, keeping your shoulders down and back, and your chin up. Don't take it too strenuously.

Habit Spasms In Youngsters Need Checking

Examination by a Nerve Specialist Is Advised

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

My wife and I have read your column for several years and have profited greatly by its pertinent advice. A father of six sons writes: "We notice that you often mention having written a reply to a letter you had received from parents, and I thought I also might ask a question you might be able to answer. We have a nine-year-old son who appears to be in normal mental and physical health. He is in proper grade at school and doing work above average. He plays well with other children and seems to be above average in most of the good personality traits."

He has, however, for the past five years acquired a variety of annoying habits that appear to us to be the result of some nervous disorder. However, we cannot discover what the cause of the nervousness might be. For example, for a period of time he had the habit of curling his hair with his finger, and did it at the table, in school, at play and when he fell asleep at night.

Other Habits Occur

Suddenly he deserted this habit and commenced to roll the balls of his eyes in circles, and did it constantly. After a few months this habit disappeared and he commenced grinding his teeth. After a few months it was a habit of stretching his neck muscles and twisting his head, much as a person whose collar was too tight. Following this habit was one of wiggling an arm as though his underclothing was itching. Now it is the habit of shuffling with one foot.

We have wondered if you could diagnose the difficulty, or if you have had experience with such habits in other children. We would appreciate any assistance that you could give us."

I replied that he had given a "nice clinical picture" of what may be called tic or habit spasms. However, it is not common for the habit to shift so quickly to a new form as in this boy's case. But this rapid shift indicates a continuous background of an unstable nervous condition.

Take Him To Specialist

"If I were you," I wrote him, "I should take the boy to a nerve specialist. Meanwhile, you could do no harm, I think, if you were to work on yourself, the family and the boy's whole environment with a view to rendering him more serene. Have his eyes tested and induce him to be less interested in exciting amusements. Cut down his movies to very few or none, and either get of your radio or keep it silent except for quiet music."

"Encourage the lad to play out-of-doors but not for too long stretches at a time. See that he avoids excessive fatigue and excitement.

"Ask yourself if he feels wholly worthy and secure emotionally in the family group; if he feels he is loved as much as the rest of the family."

"Anything you can do to help make this boy feel more poised, relaxed and serene should help him escape these outward expressions of inward instability."

Inspect Blankets

When buying colored or figured blankets inspect them carefully all over to see that there are no uneven woven places or mottled dyed spots. Unfold new blankets and inspect the edges, bindings and corners.

Washcloth Hint

Knitted washcloths are not always a good buy. They are likely to stretch out of shape, become limp and stringy. A firmly woven cloth like that used for bath towels, usually is best.

Peter Williams Spanks David
--And Then Thinks It Over

"In a second, Peter had him and was spanking him."

By LYDIA GRAY SHAW
AP Feature Service Writer

The radio started it all. When the excitement was over, Peter said he guessed they'd better have the darn thing taken out. But while it was going on... Well, that evening there was plenty of activity in the Williams' house.

Here's how it happened. Peter, at peace with the world, had settled into his favorite chair to listen to a broadcast. It was from Europe, and he had to concentrate to catch all the words.

David should have been ready for bed, but he had protested every time his mother told him to get undressed. He'd been playing hard; he was tired and grouchy. Finally, he started tearing round the house, twirling an imaginary lasso, and shouting "Hi-yo Silver!" He let go a particularly loud "Hi-yo" just as he passed Peter.

"Stop that!" yelled Peter. "Get out of here before I make you!" "I won't!" David shouted back. Peter leaped from his chair, his face white. "Don't you ever say 'I won't' to me, young man, or I'll spank you!"

"You just try," David began ducking around the furniture. In a second Peter had him and was spanking him. Judith came out of the kitchen just as Peter let the youngster go and watched David run, sobbing, to his room.

What He Needs?

"What happened?" Peter got his breath, and told her. "That kid needs a spanking to bring him into line," he said, half defensively. "Of course he should be spanked sometimes," Judith agreed. "But not when you're angry. That doesn't help. He was tired, or he wouldn't have talked back at you. You were tired, or you wouldn't have lost your temper and hit him. That puts you both in trouble."

"I suppose you're right, Judith, but what can I do about it now?" "I think you should talk it over with David. If he knows you're sorry because you hit him in anger, he'll have more respect for you," Peter looked dubious. "I should think he'd have less respect."

"No, because he's been taught that to apologize when he's wrong is the finest thing he can do. You do feel a little undignified apologizing to a five-year-old, but it doesn't seem that way to the child."

"All right, Judith, I'll go have a talk with him." He put his arm around her as he went by. "Guess you still have the common sense in the family."

GARDEN-GRAPH

By DEAN HALLIDAY

Rubber plants also go modern

There is no reason, in our modern homes with sun porches, large windows and, in many cases, air conditioning, one should not succeed with house plants.

An annually reliable plant for indoor use is shown in today's Garden-Graph. This is called Ficus pandurata, or Fiddle-leaf plant. A member of the rubber plant family, it is a more modern type that has been welcomed by decorators in place of the old-fashioned rubber plant that used to catch dust in so many homes.

It is known as the Fiddle-leaf plant because of the shape and size of its large, tough leaves, which often grow to be 12 to 15 inches long. The plant is not inclined to drop its lower leaves and it will stand the same amount of abuse the old-type rubber plant endured. The Fiddle-leaf plant therefore can be used to brighten even the darkest corner of the living room.

Seeding plants of hollyhock, foxglove, sweet william, pyrethrum and gallardia should be set in their permanent quarters now so as to give them time to become well established before the winter sets in.

Turnkey Has Kitten
With Jail Experience

Fairmont, W. Va., Sept. 18 (AP)—Anyone desiring a kitty with some jail experience should apply to the Marion county bastle. The turnkey there has one which will become the property of the first to request.

The kittens were brought to the jail about a month ago with the idea they might be useful in driving mice to cover.

The other day one of the kittens started on a tour of exploration in the kitchen section, found a nice dark hole which looked like a good spot to practice mousing and then fell twelve feet. She had stuck her nose too far into a unused dumb waiter.

Officials hunted unsuccessfully for several hours to the dumb waiter door key while the cries and screeches of the imprisoned cat mounted. Eventually a mechanic was called who after two hours of work removed the door and rescued the cat.

Even Cornhuskers
Turn Professional

Redwood Falls, Minn., Sept. 18 (AP)—There'll be a new national cornhusking champion this fall.

For Ted Balke, 33-year-old Redwood Falls farmer who won the title last fall is in the contest near Sioux Falls, S. D., has turned professional in the cornhusking business isn't a money-making proposition as it is in some forms of athletics. It's merely a technicality that disqualifies contestants and means they have entered contests other than those sponsored by the farm publications that put the national event.

Balke took part in such a contest last year, and so did Ray Hanson of Bingham Lake, Minn., the 1937 national champ.

All hedges should be given a late shearing for this year. The stalks up or tying back of hardy chrysanthemums, asters and other autumn-blooming herbaceous plants should be done now.

Kidney Trouble Is Linked with Blood Pressure

Valuable Knowledge Has Been Adduced from Tests

LOGAN CLENDENIG, M. D.

A report on medical progress in New England Medical Journal, Boston, Sept. 17, 1939, contains certain events as of importance in our knowledge of kidney disease and high blood pressure.

Goldblatt's work on the problem of high blood pressure is especially by the progressive degeneration of kidney tissue.

Working in the wards of a hospital, the physician soon learns that there is an intimate relationship between high blood pressure and kidney disease. Seldom does marked elevation of blood pressure without at the same time showing impairment of the kidney. Associated with this and by the increased pressure it works against, is always some degree of heart involvement. Which of the condition will be uppermost depends on the individual.

Compared to Triangle condition may be compared to triangle; at one apex is the kidney, at one the arteries, and at the other the symptom is not the same. In Smith as in Jones, but in case all three symptoms—blood pressure, kidneys, heart—are more involved.

Question of which comes first. Does the kidney destruction cause the high blood pressure, or the arterial degeneration in the kidneys cause them to fail?

Goldblatt came along with some mental facts. By shutting off circulation to the kidneys gradually he was able to produce, in the case of time, high blood pressure. A patient last week with an ailing right kidney and high blood pressure. If the atrophied kidney were removed surgically, would blood pressure fall? Such individuals may form a group in which blood pressure can be cured by a direct surgical approach.

Decreasing enthusiasm for forms of surgery in high blood pressure, which are not getting the they received a few years ago. Adrenal Gland Surgery—adrenal glands, for instance, secrete a substance—adrenalin—when injected into the veins immediately raises blood pressure. Idea was conceived a few years ago that if the adrenals could be removed, one cause of high blood pressure would be removed also.

Clinics where this has been some enthusiastic reports followed but skepticism prevailed. Now Dr. and Marcus show by extensive experimental investigation that prolonged increased secretion of the adrenals is incapable of causing prolonged high blood pressure, or of any change in the blood even remotely resembling which we see in high blood pressure.

Yellowstone National Park, Wyo. (AP)—Along came a big black bear almost under the nose of Fred Bieberdorf, traveling as if he knew just exactly where it was going. Straight into a pool at Mammoth Hot Springs it marched. It soaked a few minutes, stirred the water furiously and then clambered out to shake itself dry. The temperature of the pool, says Bieberdorf, is 166 degrees, exactly right for a good warm bath.

Colors for Winter Reflect War-Cloud Hues

One of the season's new shades—soft grayed green—colors this town suit, combining a simple frock and jacket. It goes to lunch with a necklace of brown and yellow amber and a gold-stemmed enamel flower pinned to the jacket. (Pins are newer than clips this fall.) Russet birds hover at the front of the gray-green stitched felt hat.

By ADELAIDE KERR
Europe's war seems to have cast its shadows before in the colors that make winter fashion news.
Storm grays, thick-mist blues, sea-storm greens, and exceedingly dark grayed "winter blues" are among them. They are newest looking of the 1940 shades which smart women will wear. The grayish cast of many of the browns and greens likewise give them a restrained, subdued look.
Crowding black, which is wisely used, is a whole fleet of new near black colors—purplish "black tulip," ruby-black, sapphire-black, and emerald-black—so dark they are close to that sable hue. They are used in rich fabrics for evening wear.
Browns of grayish and chocolate casts are among the most talked of colors this year. There are also some very dark browns and some copper and spice tones. Greens are big—and in them the grayish note appears once more in sage and lichen colors. Dark greens and a few bluish greens are also on the 1940 color card.
In contrast to all these sober hues is a vivid Revolutionary red (inspired by the 150th anniversary of the French Revolution) and used to spike black and a gay Robin Hood red worn with a dark forest green. Added to the list of reds, which are important, are dark dahlia, beet-root, brownish and violet-tinged tones. Mauve, pink and bois-de-rose are also on the list. Mustard yellow and gold are novelty hues.
Blues, less in evidence, include the dark "winter," vivid petrol and a few violet-tinged tones.
It's smart to wear a one-color costume this season if you like. Or contrast may be used in such combinations as cloud gray and brown, mist blue and nutria or Robin Hood red and dark forest green.

Instead of true black, this suave New Yorker wears a frock of purplish black tulip wool and a hat in the same distinctive shade. Clipped to her shoulder is a curved gold pin whose terminals are set in diamonds. The same stones stud her ring and bracelet. Her gros-grain bag, which matches her frock, is fastened with a big gold clasp.

From Green Rug to Gray Sofa This Living Room Is Washable

Tea-spills won't faze the hostess who lives here. Everything in this room—from rugs to woodwork—is washable. The curved sofa, upholstered in rubbery gray cotton chenille; the lemon yellow love seats, the yellow and white textured draperies, even the turquoise (pointed) walls. So is the emerald-green boucle broadloom rug that's laid over neat black linoleum. All the furniture in both the living-room and the dining-alcove is in blond oak. The dining-alcove, which may be cut off from the living-room by drawing a curtain, is colorfully decorated with reproductions of paintings by Diego Rivera. On the table in the alcove is a combination lamp and flower bowl. The dining buffet to the left of the alcove also serves as a library table. It is lighted by a lamp whose base is made of two horses' heads of blood-red alabaster. Its black silk shade is trimmed with blood-red velvet ribbon.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX, Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

She'd Like To Become Better Acquainted

Dear Miss Fairfax:
I am 19 years old and have a good stenographic position in a real estate office. There's a young man in this same office who is learning the business and while he comes in every day, he is out most of the time. I've known him for a couple of years, and happen to know he isn't married. He has always been very pleasant to me, and has even stopped at my desk for a few words.
I haven't gone out with many boys, because they're all so fresh, while this boy seems so nice that I'd like to get better acquainted with him, and I'd give anything for a date with him. Can you help me get this much wanted date, with him?

GLADYS.

You say you've known him for a "couple of years!" well, why not invite him over? Or perhaps you don't want it to look as if you're interested in him alone. Then the best plan is to invite, in several young people, either for the evening or for Sunday night supper. I can send you my supper menu if you'll send me a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope. And you might like to have a beach party or a wiener roast in the woods, inviting several boys and girls to participate, and let each one bring some certain item of food.

Girl's Father Interfered
DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:
I went with a girl for about a year, until finally her father—who had always objected to her going with me—made us quit and refused to let us see each other any more. She told me she would always love me more than any boy she had ever known, and I know I felt the same about her. That was about six months ago, and now I go to see a girl whose parents like me very much and would approve of marriage. However, she has told me something about herself which is very much on my mind, and knowing this I'm afraid I couldn't be happy with her.

What do you suggest? Shall I wait and take a chance on marrying the first love, or keep on with the second girl, learning to love her in spite of her past?

BERT
I've never thought much of the idea of "learning to love" someone. We're too prone to fall in love without trying, instead of setting to it as a task, and doing this, more or less, against our wills. In your case, there's something in the girl's past that it is hard for you to forget. Wait and see what fate has in store for you, either with the first love or with someone you have not yet come across.

Going to Dances Together
DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:
I go to school dances and country club dances with a certain boy whom I like very much indeed. I've often wondered whether he cares or not if I dance with other young men. If I ought to ask his permission, just how would I go about it? Or perhaps it isn't necessary that I ask him. Please tell me.
BOTHERED.
No, indeed, girls do not have to

Country Club Tennis Exhibition Is Big Event

Americans Win Singles Matches But Lose Doubles

Large Crowd Cheers Bromwich, Hopman, Hunt and Kramer

Miss Dorothy Wightman Appears in Mixed Doubles Match

The largest crowd ever assembled to witness a tennis match in Cumberland turned out yesterday afternoon at the Country Club courts to watch four Davis Cup players in singles and doubles, and received the best of their lives from the best to be seen anywhere.

Two men's singles, one men's doubles and a mixed doubles match made up the exhibition.

The first match between Jack Bromwich, the No. 1 Australian player, and Joe Hunt, the Annapolis champion, of the American Davis team, was won in straight sets, 6-3, 6-4. These two players had not met this year until yesterday.

Their match produced thrills after all as the big amateurs dropped the shots right over the net and the heat on the ones down the lines or across court. Bromwich's two fisted drives and lobbed him to be as advertised the top attraction. Hunt proved to be a doubt that he is one of the American players.

The second match between Harry Kramer, the crafty Captain of the Italian Davis Cup team, and Joe Kramer, the Los Angeles player, who is expected to take place of Don Budge in the amateur ranks, was even more interesting than the first. The American won this match 6-4, and 7-5.

Hopman's generalship and tactics proved him to be the master of the game. When he was not returned by the right line or in the right direction to proper place on the court. The player made up for his losses however by fast recoveries, smashing play at the net.

The double match between Hunt and Kramer, this year's American Cup team, and Bromwich and Kramer, the Australians, produced the greatest thrills for the spectators, especially when all four players to the net and kept the ball in with long rallies. The match won by Bromwich and Hopman 7-5 sets, both teams winning a game continually until final two games. Once again Kramer showed he knew his tennis for time after time he scored on the American team after getting to the center of the net or taking advantage of their on the base line.

The finals of the exhibition was a double match between Miss Dorothy Wightman and Jack Kramer, and Mrs. Gordon Bowie and Hopman, which was won by Kramer and Hopman, 6-3, 6-4.

The exhibition was sanctioned by Cumberland Country Club by United States Lawn Tennis Association.

Bromwich, Hopman and Kramer last night for Cleveland where they will play another exhibition. Hunt went to Atlanta, Ga. to an exhibition with Adrian Panatta, another member of the Australian Davis Cup team. Miss Dorothy Wightman will remain here today as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Small.

The Country Club management, members of the various exhibition committees, and Fred Small, who considerable personal expense made the matches possible, are to be congratulated for the people of this section to remember for years to come.

You're Really Fighting Irish

At Bend, Ind. (AP)—There will be no truth in tradition in Donnie's football nickname, the Fighting Irish, in the season just begun.

WINS AMATEUR TITLE

Pastor Is Now Ready for His Big Chance

He Has Been Gambling for Return Match for Two Years

By SID FEDER
Brighton, Mich., Sept. 18 (AP)—Forty miles out of Detroit, in a lively lake-bound setting, Bob Pastor is putting the finishing touches to the biggest gamble since they put dots on little ivory cubes and called them dice.

For two years he has been gambling for his return match with Joe Louis, which comes off Wednesday night in Detroit's Briggs Stadium with the heavyweight championship of the world at stake. For two years he has loudly proclaimed that in his first "bicycle battle" against the brown bomber, the ten-round decision against him wasn't any one-sided verdict.

He has had twenty-five fights since that time, each one a gamble, for in each case he tangled with a good, tough opponent right in that opponent's home town. He dropped only one verdict, a close one to Gus Dorazio in Philadelphia.

And now, Bob has come down to the last week, still tossing the dice. He hasn't boxed a lick since last Thursday, an almost unheard-of thing in a heavyweight's preparation.

He has been in training eight long weeks, here and at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., and he boxed 150 rounds with sparring partners.

"The work was worth it, though," he said today. "This is the biggest fight of my life. All the training has put me in the greatest shape. The twenty round route won't bother me one bit; I can go thirty rounds now. But I won't need it. I'll win and I'm confident I can knock him out in seven or eight rounds."

Pastor has fought in Detroit only once before, last May when he whipped Roscoe Toles, a victory that boosted him right into the title spot. All signs now point to a crowd of fifty thousand and a gate of half a million for Wednesday's waltz.

There have been some rumors about these parts that Pastor has gone "stale," that he worked too long. He insists these are wrong. But unless he is in the best condition he will be in for a very unpleasant evening. Joe Louis has proved often that he is a citizen not to be fooled with unless all your armor plate is well welded.

New England Futurity Scheduled for Oct. 28

Indians Defeat A's 9 to 4 and Tie for Third

Cleveland Continues Stretch Drive as Allen Wins Ninth

Philadelphia, Sept. 18 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians continued a sizzling stretch drive today by downing Philadelphia, 9 to 4, to go into a third-place tie with the idle Chicago White Sox.

Today's decision also pushed Cleveland up within three games of second-place Boston.

Johnny Allen's ninth victory of the season, against six defeats, gave the Tribesmen their sixth triumph in seven starts in the east, perennial burial ground of Cleveland pennant hopes.

Cleveland hammered Sam Page, right-handed rookie up from the A's Williamsport (Pa.) farm, for 13 blows and Allen never was in danger after he was staked to a two-run lead in the first inning.

Beat the Favorite Redlin and Paid $12.90 to Win
Havre De Grace, Md., Sept. 18 (AP)—Ten thousand race-starved birds welcomed the return of big time racing to Maryland today and saw Sun Egret beat the favorite to win the $2,500 six furlong Susquehanna handicap.

Albert Shelhamer jockeyed the A. C. Stable's winner of the $5,000 Harford Handicap here last spring from behind the pack of ten in the last furlong to beat Howard Bruce's Jay Jay by a length. Sun Egret paid $12.90, $8.50 and $5.70.

A scant nose behind Jay Jay came W. H. Lipscomb's Redlin, the favorite, which appeared to tire early.

As a propitious starter, the newly installed totalisator rung up a daily double of $619.50 for $2 on Air Cooled in the first and Good Taste in the second race.

Form sheets will rank with high literature in Maryland from now until December 2 while the fans try to guess the winner of $100,000 in stakes and daily purses at Havre De Grace, Laurel, Pimlico and Bowie.

Justice Is New Blocking Back For Navy Eleven

195 Michigan Second
Stringer Promoted to Varsity Squad

Annapolis, Sept. 18 (AP)—The 195-pound answer to a desperate coach's prayer was cowering in the Navy backfield at football practice tonight.

Coach E. E. (Swede) Larson, a demon stamp collector, got a couple of rare Central American airmail numbers today, but the real reason for his six-inch-wingspread grin was Dave Justice, a rookie from Grossete Point, Mich.

Larson was up against it for a blocking back. His four varsity blockers went out one after the other with charley horses and bad legs. Ed Gillette, Lou Gray, Ralph Boyer and Vic Blaudin were all on the sidelines with bum underpinning.

Just when Larson was about to give the waterboy the office to play the vital No. 2 blocker's post, Justice began blocking like an annoyed tornado. Before practice was well started, half the squad was sitting on the turf counting Justices go by.

Larson immediately promoted the big Michigan kid to the varsity squad, the first Navy grid aspirant to graduate from "B" ranks this year.

Justice was out for an end position, but the way he bowled over the big boys tonight made a blocking back out of him in Larson's book.

DEADPAN—It's Joe Louis, serious as ever, at his Northville, Mich., training camp. Joe meets Pastor, Sept. 20.

INSIDE DOPE—Medicos give Bob Pastor, Louis foe Sept. 20, once over at Brighton, Mich., camp.

The Sportlight BY GRANTLAND RICE

Not Quite The Same
Detroit, Sept. 18.—The somewhat melancholy and untoward incidents that happened recently to Lou Nova have put a certain restraint on predictions that Joe Louis would remove Bob Pastor from the scene in a round or two.

Jack Blackburn has one answer to this query—"Lou Nova ain't any Joe Louis, and Pastor hasn't got that left hook that Galento carries around."

There is a strong feeling in the Louis camp that Pastor is in for the shock of his young life—the same shock that struck Max Schmeling.

Pastor met Joe at the time Joe was boxing and jabbing. Blackburn told you. "That's the way he was against Schmeling and Farr."

Pastor hasn't tackled the Joe that starts out punching with both hands to get it over in a hurry. I can still see that look on Schmeling's face when Joe piled into him from the bell, trying to tear his head off with the first punch. Pastor is fighting a different Louis Wednesday night."

Catching Pastor
"If Pastor decides to get on the bicycle, can Louis catch him?" Blackburn was asked.

"Joe'll catch him this time. Don't worry about that. Joe's learned a lot since that first Pastor fight. A whole lot. It might take a few rounds if Pastor decides to keep out of range, but Joe's been a little mad about that first fight, and when Joe gets a little mad, as he got at Schmeling and Galento, he's liable to hurt somebody a little without wasting too much time. He's got a faster fellow to catch and it might take longer, but the catching will take place sure."

"So Joe's a little mad?"
"Well, you know how it is," Blackburn said. "He's a little mad because Johnston has told everybody how Pastor outfoxed us. Not much mad, maybe, but enough to make it as quick as he can. Max Schmeling and Tony Galento also know how it is when Joe gets a little mad. It rarely comes under the head of pleasure for the party of the second part, technically known as the other guy."

Pastor's Chance
Naturally, James J. Johnston looks upon these remarks with a fair amount of distaste. In fact, he pooh-poohs them long and loudly. It is still James J. Johnston's idea carried up to the eve of the battle, that Joe Louis is the one who will be shell-shocked by the amazing improvement James J. thinks has taken place in the Pastor equipment.

"Louis is finally meeting a real fighter," Johnston says. "For one of the few times in his life, he is meeting a well trained, a well conditioned athlete, and I don't mean Primo Camera, Max Baer, Jim Braddock, John Henry Lewis, Jack Roper and Tony Galento. There's a brilliant cavalcade of youth, brawn, speed, skill and amazing physical shape. If that isn't at least two tons of ancient history, decrepitude and flabbiness all rolled together, I'll never let another sound leave my mouth."

"What do you do in football? What do you do in any game? You judge a man by the class of the opposition. You say these were the best men around. That still doesn't keep them from being what they were. And everybody knows what they were—at least anybody who wasn't completely blind."

The Type of Fight
They've thrown a guess at almost every type of fight that might take place. As far as anyone can figure in advance, there can be only one type of fight—Louis moving in with both hands, ready for the smash—Pastor on the defensive, keeping out of trouble as long as he can in the hope that Louis will get bewildered or baffled and perhaps blow up.

I don't think Louis will get bewildered or baffled. He is still the hardest two-handed hitter the ring

The SPORT TRAIL

By WHITNEY MARTIN

New York, Sept. 17 (AP)—He's worked at only 111 ball parks this summer, so naturally the only place to look for him on his day off was a ball park and sure enough, there sat Al Schacht at the Yankee Stadium, looking like old sitting Bull himself.

The man who makes a business of funny business is on the rag end of a tour which has taken in 43 states and Canada, and the way he rattles off figures pertaining to his jaunt is a caution. He makes a Cook's tour seem like a trip around the block.

Caught and held before they were washed away by a fresh flow of information were such items as: Driven 45,000 miles, probably 50,000 more... Drew 500,000 people in minors alone... Topped was 17,000 in Seattle... St. Paul to Hollywood, 2,112 miles, in two days... Worked 68 nights in row... On Fifth set of tires... More than $12,000 expenses.

"It's been my best year," said the wiry gent who quit the coaching line three years ago to clown his way about the land. "I've driven 135,000 miles in the three years, which means in about 13 months. My average daily, or nightly, jump is about 430 miles. I have a chauffeur but he's more my stooge."

"I never missed an engagement, although once, at Lima, Ohio, I bumped my head on a beam under the grandstand and was out for 20 minutes, and at Syracuse I broke my nose. That was a funny one. That same day I was served a summons in a $5,000 suit by a man who claimed a ball I tossed into the bleachers had broken his nose."

"That night in one of my stunts where my stooge was supposed to throw a bucket of water on me, he really did, bucket and all. It busted my nose."

Schacht said his oddest experience was at Dallas, Tex. He had worked out a stunt at Houston in which he hit an imaginary foul ball peered upward and registered amazement as a stooge dumped a bucket of balls from the top of the stands.

"At Dallas I hired a long, lean colored boy with a singing voice," he recalled. "I paid him 30 skulls and planted him on top of the press box with the bucket of balls. When I went on the field I glanced up, and he was there all right, his feet dangling over the edge."

"When I hit the imaginary foul and looked up, nothing happened. I yelled 'baseballs, baseballs,' and still nothing happened. Then I looked toward the press box, and there was my boy snoring away for all he was worth."

"Well, I went into my pre-game broadcast, up through the first pitch, which happened to be a foul, yelled 'foul,' and as I did the ball landed on the press coop, the colored boy woke with a jump and dumped the bucket of balls down on the field. I asked him later what was the matter, and he sang out: 'Well, suh a man can't drink beer all dayaay, and stay awake all night!'"

Schacht says he never has had trouble with fans objecting to his stunts, which include grabbing cigars, stealing girls from their escorts, and kissing sedate matrons.

"They love it," he explains. "It's all good, clean fun, and they enter into the spirit of it. And I love it, too. The strain never gets me but I bet there isn't one man in 10,000 could stand the pace."

He hasn't got a bet here, even if he made a million.

688 Fans See the Pirates Down Phils

Pittsburgh, Sept. 18 (AP)—The smallest crowd at Forbes Field in years saw Arky Vaughan and Maurice Van Robays hammer out home runs today to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 7 to 4 victory over Philadelphia in the final game of the season between the two teams.

Only 688 fans were in the stands as Vaughan and Van Robays accounted for four runs with their circuit smashes in the seventh to put the Pirates, trailing 3 to 2, ahead.

Bees Hold Reds To Even Break In Twin Bill

Rhinelanders Take First Game 4 to 1; Drop Second 5 to 4

Cincinnati, Sept. 18 (AP)—Cincinnati again got off to a rousing start against the Boston Bees to win the opener of today's double-header, 4 to 1, but got snagged on a (George) Barnicle in the nightcap for a 5-4 defeat and the Reds wound up just about where they started the day.

With Whitey Moore throwing a hit ball, the Reds breezed in the first game. Ernie Lombardi, who was not so long ago in the worst slump of his career, helped himself to a triple and a pair of singles.

Moore kept the Bees well under control until the seventh, when Max West tripled and scored on an infield play. It was Whitey's 13th victory of the season.

The nightcap was a good deal like yesterday's fumbling games. Werber, Goodman, and Myers contributed bobbles. Meanwhile the Bees leaped on their ex-team mate, Milburn Shoffner, for all their runs in the first two innings.

Brundage Says U. S. Might Stage 1940 Olympic Games

Chicago, Sept. 18 (AP)—Avery Brundage, chairman of the American Olympic Committee, said today the A.O.C. might be willing to stage the 1940 games in the United States if they can not be held in Finland because of the war.

He emphasized, however, that serious obstacles and a lack of time for suitable preparation would make a huge job of it.

Brundage, former president of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States, said he had taken cognizance of recurring reports of plans to shift the games by asking the International Olympic committee if the war had altered Finland's plans for holding the event. He said there had not been time for an answer to his request.

Brundage also recently received an offer from Lake Placid, N. Y., to present the 1940 winter Olympics there in the event they could not be held at Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany, as scheduled.

"We would be very happy to have the Olympic games in the United States under these circumstances," Brundage said. "We could handle them if there were time enough to prepare for games of the usual high Olympic standard—and I'm not certain we would have that much time."

"Finland would have to abandon formally its plans to hold the games before a move for transferring them could be made, and a Finnish spokesman said last week that Finland was determined to carry out its plans if at all possible."

Brundage also pointed out that the war might prevent a truly Olympic event.

Iron Moulder Jailed For Chasing Tax Collector

Roy Lund, 36, an unmarried iron moulder who gave his home address as Wilmerding, Pa., was given a hearing Monday afternoon in local trial magistrate's court on a charge of vagrancy and attempted assault.

He was arrested about 9 a. m. by Officers Benjamin H. Thomas and Hugh Duncan, on complaint of Herbert H. Griffith, state and county tax collector, who testified that Lund made three attempts to assault him.

According to Griffith's testimony, Lund, who had been begging for food at homes on West Main street, got three ham sandwiches at a neighboring home which he threw away. He then approached Griffith for a handout which was refused because Griffith said he knew what had been done with the sandwiches.

Lund then approached Griffith in a menacing manner and forced him to take refuge in his home. Later, Griffith testified, the man ran after him as he was walking from his home to his work. Griffith took refuge first in the Burton property and then at the home of U. B. Edwards.

Responding to a phone call, the officers chased Lund to the Western Maryland railroad depot where he gave himself up after Officer Thomas told his revolver in the air. Lund testified that he simply wanted to talk with Griffith. He said he was on his way to Sparrows Point to work with the Bethlehem Steel Company. Judge Owen Porter sentenced him to six months in the House of Correction.

Code Won't Let Hollywood Be Itself When It Turns the Film Clock Back

By The AP Feature Service

The motion picture producers' morals code won't even let them reproduce Hollywood the way they know the old place. Darryl Zanuck's "Hollywood Cavalcade," which covers most of the history of silent pictures, developed this quirk:

IN THE "CAVALCADE" you'll see this water witch, modest Dorothy Dearing. For your information, she's being as near like the lady at the left as the code will allow.

Air Cadets Learn Figuring With Help of 20-Foot Rule

A slide rule that's 20 feet long, but as accurate as the normal 10-inchers is in use at Randolph Field, Texas, where Uncle Sam trains pilots for the Air Corps. To demonstrate the use of a slide rule, which every flying cadet must be able to operate, Lieutenant Harry N. Renshaw (left) devised this mammoth instrument. It can be seen from every part of the classroom. While Renshaw works mathematical problems on the giant, the flying cadets follow on their own slide rules. The instrument was constructed from photographically enlarged reproductions of a normal sized rule.

No Rent Is Paid In Town Where Mine Suspended

Village of Sun Is Place of Absentee Ownership

Sun, W. Va., Sept. 17 (AP)—This is a town where rent is free—provided you can find a vacant house. Eight years ago the Stone Coal and Coke Company closed its Sun mine, and since then the Fayette county village has had but little business activity—and no landlords. The company has not tried to collect rent from the families occupying its houses—it owns nearly every one in the village—and Sun has become a town of "absentee ownership."

But vacancies seldom occur. "If a house became vacant at night it would be taken before the sun was well up the next morning," one resident said.

Sells Occupancy Right

The usual procedure, when a house does become vacant, is that the family moving out sells the right of occupancy to that moving in. The price varies from $10 to $25.

There has been no recent check to show the population of the town, and residents estimate it at anywhere from 800 to 1,500. A. P. Page, who operates a small store and whose wife keeps the Sun post-office, said there were 402 registered voters in the town two years ago. He estimated that at least half the residents lived here when the mine suspended operations.

Most of the men living here now work in other mines, at Eccles, Skelton, Cranberry and other places. There are a few small stores, a few churches and an almost new grade school, which sits up on the hill above the village, which sprawls for more than a mile along the slopes of Sun Hollow.

L. J. Spradlin, of the Spradlin Bros. store, across the highway from Sun, said the company ran sixty-eight cars of coal on the last day it worked and the mine employed 535 men.

Plant Dismantled

When the mine closed the mine tipples, the company store, the club house, the railroad tracks and even some of the houses were dismantled and moved away.

And residents do as they please with the remaining houses. A man may live in two rooms and cut the

State Police To Have Short Wave Network In West Virginia

Charleston, W. Va., Sept. 18 (AP)—By Dec. 1 the state police hope to have West Virginia fully protected with their short wave radio network. Lieutenant K. C. McGregor announced today.

Next should be Charleston, the network key, by Nov. 1, and equipment has been ordered for the Romney station for Dec. 1 operation.

The stations at Moundsville and Shinnston have been operating on regular schedule for most of the summer. A portable transmitter was put into use at Charleston about a month ago and will serve until the permanent equipment is installed.

A sixth station may be started next spring. Engineers have examined several Southern West Virginia locations but no site has yet been chosen.

White Woman, Negro Man Crash Victims

Mystery Surrounds Bedford Road Smash-Up

A 30-year-old negro was in a critical condition this morning after the car he was driving careened off Bedford road, crashed into a garage, and overturned.

The crash victim is Robert T. Harris, colored, of 111 North Walnut Place. He suffered a fractured skull and multiple lacerations and bruises about the head and body, according to Allegheny hospital attendants. He had not regained consciousness early this morning.

Also in the hospital as a result of the crash is a 31-year-old white Washington woman, whose condition was described as "fair."

State Trooper B. C. Mason, who investigated, said papers in her purse indicated her name was Miss Marguerite Nelson, of 1818 M. street, N. W. Washington, D. C. She was in a semi-conscious condition, suffering multiple cuts about the face and body and possible fractured cheek - bone.

The car in which the two were riding, heading toward Cumberland, plunged off the highway about 9:30 p. m. a half-mile beyond Nave's cross-roads, ran about 150 feet through a field, and overturned after smashing into the corner of a garage. The vehicle was virtually demolished.

Thrown Through Windshield

Trooper Mason expressed the belief that Harris, porter at the Blue Ridge bus terminal, was thrown through the windshield.

The officer was still investigating this morning in an effort to discover the circumstances surrounding the accident.

It had not been determined definitely whether the injured woman was the same woman who had left a Washington-Chicago bus here at 8:45 to go to a drug store, and had failed to return in time to continue the trip.

Misses Bus

The agent at the terminal said that a woman had alighted from the bus and said she was ill and had to go to a drug store. The bus was delayed slightly, but finally continued without her.

A Washington-Chicago bus ticket was found in Miss Nelson's purse. Mason said, it was for the same bus from which the woman described by the terminal agent alighted.

The injured were brought to the hospital by Russell Armbruster, of RFD 3.

Harris had worked at the terminal until 8 p. m., it was said.

Baffled by War? Go to Library

New Books Explain Background of Conflict

Cumblers baffled by the trend of events in Europe and seeking to understand the background of the war will find material aid in new books at the Cumberland Free Public Library.

"Everybody is reading or trying to read the many important new books dealing with the present crisis," Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian, said, noting that among the more popular ones available at the library are:

Books Listed

"Step by Step," by Winston Churchill.
"Let the Record Speak," by Dorothy Thompson.
"Not Peace but a Sword," by Vincent Sheean.
"Democracy Today and Tomorrow," by Edouard Benes.

All these volumes, Miss Walsh pointed out, are from well-known pens. Brief descriptions of the books she gave as follows:

Winston Churchill, famous English statesman, gives in "Step by Step" a brilliant consideration of international affairs since 1936.

Benes Optimistic

Dorothy Thompson and Vincent Sheean, both American and both prolific and gifted writers, make no introduction to the American reading public. These, their latest books, are written with their usual verve and ability.

Edouard Benes, former president of Czechoslovakia, has written in "Democracy Today and Tomorrow" a fine re-statement of the democratic credo. In spite of his own experience, the book ends on a hopeful and inspiring note.

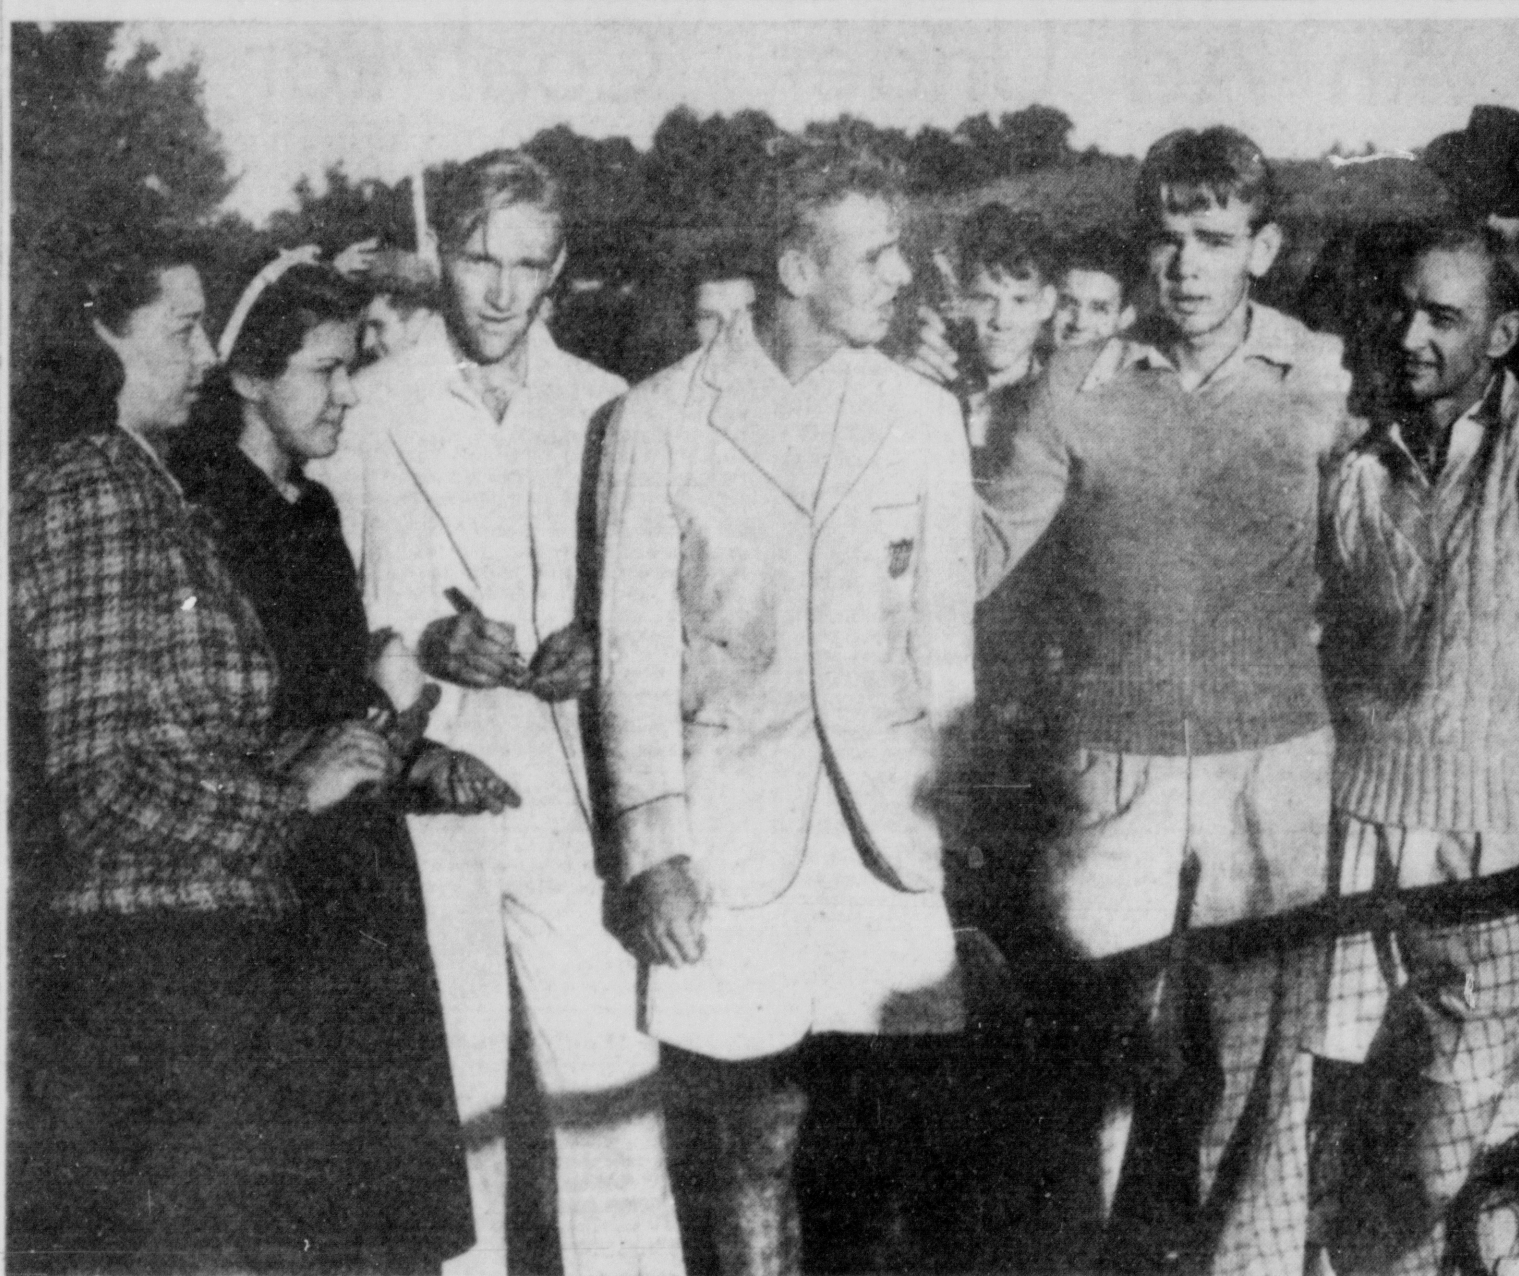

Other works of timely interest include "Twenty Years Armistice, 1918-1938," by William Orton; "Our Maginot Line—The Defense of the Americas," by Livingston Hartley; and "The Ramparts We Watch," by Du Puy and G. F. Elliot.

Aviator Writes Book

A book of different type which will appeal to many readers is "Wind, Sand, and Stars," by Antoine de Saint-Exupery.

The author is a French aviator; his book is an adventure in prose, beautifully written. His description of flying in all conditions and over every kind of territory will long be remembered.

"Wind, Sand, and Stars" was awarded the Grand Prix of the Academie Française. The American edition, now available at the library here, was translated from the French by Louis Galantier.

$10 Bill's Trip down Arch Street Has the Law in a Muddle to Date

If law enforcement officers sometimes become cynical its because people make them that way.

Take yesterday's episode on Arch street, for example. It's about a ten dollar bill.

Early last night police arrested Florence Spencer, 24, of 229 Arch street, for allegedly sypping a 10-year-old girl out of her crisp ten dollar bill. Miss Spencer was promptly jailed pending a hearing today.

According to the little girl, her mother gave her the ten dollar bill and told her to go to the store and buy a nipple for baby. On the way, she said she dropped in to see Miss Spencer. When informed that she had a ten dollar bill, Miss Spencer asked to see it, the little girl said.

Money Allegedly Taken

The little girl showed her the ten dollar bill and Miss Spencer marched to the nearest store and bought some cigarettes, the girl said. She finally gave the little girl back $3.75.

whereupon the child thought she had all her money, bought her nipple and returned home, police were told.

Mother Complains To The Law
Pretty soon, the child's mother started to raise a rumpus and last night appeared with the little girl before County Investigator Terrence J. Boyle. The mother declared things had come to a pretty pass when a body couldn't send her child to the store without being robbed.

Another Claim In
A little while after the mother and child had left Investigator Boyle's office, two other women arrived. One of the women declared that she had dropped a ten dollar bill on Arch street yesterday and somebody had picked it up.

The other woman declared her son had seen the little ten-year-old girl who was on her way to the store to buy a nipple pick it up. "Have them all here Tuesday at 9:30 a. m.," declared Investigator Boyle wearily.

Elusive Youth Trapped at Last

Police Catch Third Suspected Burglar

Police today had picked off the last and most elusive member of the three-man gang which allegedly broke into and burglarized the Savoy poolroom on July 29.

Issiah Robertson, 19, today was being held for the grand jury under $500 bond on a breaking and entering charge. Two confessed compatriots, Thomas Morgan and Walter Orndorff, were arrested in the latter part of July.

Robertson, after playing hide-and-seek with authorities for nearly two months, finally was nabbed Sunday by Detective Sgt. Frank Gaffney, R. C. Casson, and J. H. Newhouse. The pinch was made on the West Side when officers surprised him.

After breaking into the poolroom last July, the trio proceeded to play havoc with the interior of the establishment, police charge. They marched out with a quantity of loot which included cigarettes, watches, flashlights and money, police say, but most of the loot was recovered.

Morgan and Orndorff slipped into Ohio following the job but were grabbed upon their return. Robertson, however, proved a will-of-the-wisp as he slipped from one hide-out to another.

4-H To Present Free Movie

Plan Two-Hour Show At Jockey Club

One of the most complete and elaborate 4-H Club entertainment units ever developed will be made available to the people of this county Thursday. Home Demonstration Agent Maude A. Bean announced yesterday.

The show consists of two hours of talking pictures, the feature of which is the dramatized all-talking version of the famous novel, "Under the 4-H Flag."

The program will also include a 4-H news reel, an educational short called "Hidden Values," and a cartoon comedy.

The show will be held at the Jockey Club, Cumberland Fair grounds, and will start promptly at eight o'clock.

Admission will be free. Its purpose is to stimulate interest in the aims and aspirations of the 4-H movement and to give its members, their families and friends, and others interested in agriculture some high grade entertainment.

This county's 4-H organization will have an opportunity to participate in an attendance contest whose awards amount to $2,000, Miss Bean said.

The award of prizes will be made on the basis of the proportion of the county's rural population that attends the showing. All counties in the country in which the picture will be shown will participate in the contest, and the county winning first prize will get a check for $1,000 which is to be devoted to 4-H activities.

Five Other Suits Placed on Docket

Dissolution of a marriage contracted twenty-one years ago is sought in a divorce suit docketed in Circuit court yesterday.

The suit, by which Mrs. Ina Staley seeks a partial divorce from Ernest Staley, was one of six new divorce cases on the equity docket.

The bill of complaint, filed by Attorney Edward J. Ryan, says that the Staley couple was married in Roanoke, Va., in August, 1918, and lived together until Sept. 3, of this year.

Mrs. Staley charges her husband, a Celanese patrolman, treated her with "great cruelty" and "assaulted her on a number of occasions." Her health has been impaired and she is in "constant fear of bodily injury," according to the suit.

Restraining Order Denied

The bill of complaint asked a restraining order to prevent Staley from entering the home at 406 Maryland avenue. The plea was not granted, however.

Desertion is charged by Thomas Marshall Llewellyn in a suit asking a partial divorce from Mrs. Marian Genevieve Llewellyn.

The bill of complaint, docketed by Attorney W. Earle Cobey, says that the couple was married here in April, 1936, and lived together until Aug. 15, of this year, when Mrs. Llewellyn left her husband. Custody of two small sons is asked.

The bill of complaint was docketed by Attorney Morris Baron.

Chamber Boosts New Highway To Frostburg

Committee To Call On Roads Commission In Baltimore

The proposed rebuilding of the Frostburg-Cumberland highway will be given a boost tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. when the Good Roads committee of the Chamber of Commerce confers with the State Roads Commission in Baltimore.

One of the most important subjects to be discussed is the proposed relocation of the highway, which will eliminate a majority of the hazardous curves on that particular section of Route 40.

"The amount of traffic on this road justifies the project contemplated," H. W. Smith, secretary of the Chamber, commented yesterday.

Approximately $400,000 has been allocated for the job, which may start sometime this fall.

According to figures gathered by state checks and the Chamber of Commerce, this section of Route 40 stands fifth in the State of Maryland in density of traffic.

Recent checks have revealed that an average of 500 cars pass a given point on this route in one hour. Figures compiled at the Chamber's information booth at the Six-Mile House show that approximately 3,800 cars pass in an eight-hour period.

Members of the committee who will attend the conference tomorrow will probably be Chairman Miles Thompson, Harry Manley, C. A. Richards, and Secretary Smith.

Jehovah's Witnesses Protest Headline

A representative of Jehovah's Witnesses protested last night that the headline in Monday's News which read, "Jehovah's Witnesses Enter Ordinance War as Allies of CIO," was incorrect and tended to create a false impression.

The representative pointed out that Jehovah's Witnesses are in no manner whatsoever connected with the CIO or any other organization.

The News headline was not intended to imply any connection between Jehovah's Witnesses and the CIO.

Dr. Jones Tells Club about Europe

Dr. Emmett L. Jones, Jr., was the speaker at last night's dinner-meeting of the Exchange club at Central YMCA.

Dr. Jones, recently returned from Europe, reported on the troubled European scene as he saw it during the six-month period prior to the outbreak of the war.

Religion Frees Handbill Passers In Police Court

Jehovah's Witnesses Not Guilty, Says Magistrate Bruce

Six Jehovah's Witnesses yesterday ably pleaded their case in Police court and obtained an acquittal without even so much as playing a phonograph record.

The six, arrested Saturday night for violating City Council's handbill ordinance, were acquitted by Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr. on the grounds that any religious group has a right to spread the word as they see fit, provided they are orderly and do not disturb the public peace.

Religious Group Exempt

Magistrate Bruce stated that while the group had no license to distribute handbills, they nevertheless had the right to obtain converts as provided under the Constitution of the United States. The ordinance does not apply to a religious group, the magistrate said.

The six Witnesses were represented yesterday by E. R. Vanice, of Washington, who had posted bonds for their appearance in court following the police crackdown Saturday night.

Vanice read parts of a United States Supreme Court decision to the court. The decision held unconstitutional a Georgia law regulating the distributing of handbills in a city. The original case had involved Jehovah's Witnesses.

Defendants Freed

City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett conferred with Magistrate Bruce before the decision was announced. The six defendants were then freed. They were: Paul C. Nice-warner, 11 Fifth street; Ernest Ruppert, Locust Grove; Stuart Bolden, Meyersdale, Pa.; Mrs. J. R. Miller, 428 Beall street; Mae Fleck, Triple Lakes; and Mrs. Ida Klink, Meyersdale.

An hour after the acquittal, the Western Maryland Industrial Union Council, in a letter signed by President Harry E. Castle, asked repeal of the handbill ordinance by the Mayor and City Council.

Repeal Request Rejected

Commissioner Thomas F. Conlon moved the request for repeal be rejected, and the motion was approved unanimously. This was the second letter in two weeks from Castle. The first was thrown out by Mayor Irvine on the grounds that it was too "sarcastic."

In announcing his decision on the case of the six Witnesses, Magistrate Bruce gave a new interpretation to the city handbill ordinance which requires that persons distributing printed matter buy a license.

Magistrate Bruce ruled that the ordinance was not applicable to the Witnesses as a religious group.

One of the slogans of the Witnesses is "Religion is a Snare and a Racket."

Three Arrested For Mine Theft

Round-Up Follows Auto Accident

The lucrative if shadowy business operated by Jones, Jones and Coleman today had been smashed by authorities, County Investigator Terrence J. Boyle announced last night.

Boyle, collaborating with State Police and Investigator Walter Clay, today had accounted for the three operators who are charged with swiping a truckload full of Georges Creek Mine property Sunday night.

According to the officers, James and Elmer Jones, and Emanuel Coleman, all of Cumberland, loaded up their truck with a number of car wheels, axles and other goods on mine property.

Elmer Jones and Coleman then carried the loot to McKeesport, Pa., where they sold it. On the way back, Jones wrecked the truck and wound up in a hospital at Uniontown.

All three are now in the custody of county officers.

Too Many Slugs in Vending Machine

Atlanta, Sept. 18 (AP) — It was self defense, not bold larceny, when a soft-drink vending machine disappeared from Atlanta police headquarters.

Owners said they removed it because a persistently heavy crop of slugs, pennies, etc., made it a money-loser.

on High Roads Low Roads and By-Ways

Almost any Cumberlander will tell you that our fair grounds is supposed to be the most beautiful in America.

After basking in the hilltop sunshine at the Cumberland Country Club yesterday, we'll say that neither Australians nor Americans ever played tennis in a more beautiful setting.

—o—

Like most people, we had never seen a topflight tennis match before yesterday. It was different enough to be very amusing, although if we had to pay $1.10 admission price we might have taken the thing more seriously.

We were used to going to sports events where people get excited and at least want to throw pop bottles at somebody. There were more umpires and officials at the tennis match than you could shake a pop bottle at, and all were within pretty close range of the galleries, but none got crowned. Not even one was called a robber.

Tennis is a gentlemanly sport, and even the officials are considered to be gentlemen.

There wasn't any rooting, or even cheering. There was a polite ripple of applause now and then that was pretty genuine, because all the spectators were trying hard to get their $1.10 worth (and getting it), but no one seemed to have any favorites. We felt like we ought to yell for the Americans, but no one else was and they seemed to be taking pretty good care of themselves. Then, too, we in this country do have to be neutral, don't we?

The payoff in politeness was the absence of the guys who sell things. Why they hawk cold drinks in the New York theaters, but not at the country club's tennis matches. Instead, there was a big water cooler set up under a tree, and you could go help yourself out of a paper cup.

We don't know who won, but only the score keepers seemed to be worrying about the tide of victory.

We were told by many an enthusiastic watcher that it was real tennis, and everyone was running around shaking Fred Small's hand and telling him how wonderful he was to bring tennis like that to Cumberland.

It's not news to report that postmen are pretty smart when it comes to figuring out where some letters are really intended to go.

But we want to toss a verbal bouquet at whichever servant of Uncle Sam delivered to us a post card with the following address:

"Vol. 1, No. 288, Cumberland, Maryland, Saturday, September 16, 1939."

This address was copied off the front of Saturday's paper, but the writer, a little boy named Billy who lives in Romney, overlooked the name of the paper altogether.

The youngster said he would like to sell our paper.

Hamburger Again On Court Menu

Restaurant Named In Poison Suit

The ubiquitous hamburger was more or less the defendant today in two suits docketed in Circuit court.

Two men, both represented by Attorney Julius E. Schindler, charge that a downtown restaurant sold them hamburger sandwiches which were "poisonous and unfit for human consumption."

As a result, James C. Winner and Charles Keplinger became "sick and disabled" and were forced to spend considerable money for medical attention, the suits assert. Not only did they suffer severe pains in the stomach after eating the hamburgers; today they are in a "weakened and debilitated condition," according to the bills of complaint.

Charging the restaurant with negligence, each man asks damages of $1,000.

Crash Victim Still Living

Boy Semi-Conscious At Intervals

The condition of Frederick Siple 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Preston T. Siple, of Fort Ashby, W. Va., who was injured Sunday night when a car hit his bicycle remained serious yesterday at Memorial hospital.

Driver of the car, Ralph H. Bailey, 43, of Romney, W. Va., posted $200 bond after he was arrested by West Virginia state police pending outcome of the boy's injuries.

Hospital attaches last night reported that the youth was semi-conscious at intervals.

Mayor Again Stymies Plans For Airport

Wouldn't Spend Nickel for It, Declares Irvine

Mayor Harry Irvine yesterday tossed a monkey wrench into the rejuvenated Wiley Ford airport plans and once again the proposed to complete the necessary work was tucked away in the municipal attic.

When City Engineer Ralph Rizer informed members of Council that he could complete a survey for $1,100 without any additional help, Mayor Irvine and council promptly consigned the matter back to the mothballs.

"What is your pleasure, gentlemen," inquired Mayor Irvine at the conclusion of the engineer's report. "For my part, I wouldn't spend a nickel on it."

Councilmen Silent

By their silence the members of council indicated that they would either.

Thus abruptly ended the survey completion plans which were rejuvenated and dusted off last week following a conference between officials and the Chamber of Commerce airport committee.

Commenting on the action, City Hall yesterday, H. W. Smith, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, said, "We were hopeful a survey would be completed. Inasmuch as the thing has already been started, it seems like a good idea to finish it up. It might make sound and economical WPA project."

Military Value Stressed

Secretary Smith also mentioned the fact that ranking WPA officials in Washington have decreed that WPA should now concentrate on projects of military significance.

"We might be able to make good thing out of an airport," Washington should decide it needs a port in Cumberland,
